

Republican Views Clash Over Aid

Endell Willkie's Bid for Prompt Help Is Not Keynote for All Speakers

Nye Dissents

Diana Senator Says Willkie Betrays His Party

(By the Associated Press)
Sharp differences of opinion on the mechanics of American aid to Britain arose in the speeches of Endell L. Willkie and other Republican orators at Lincoln Day banquets over the nation last night.

Willkie's appeal for prompt American assistance for the embattled British did not set the keynote for all the other speakers. Some of them had sharp criticism in terms of the pending lease-lend bill, which Willkie previously endorsed with modifications. The 1940 presidential nominee called on Republicans to "take a lead in furnishing American aid to the fighting men of Britain."

He declared that death awaits the party if it finds "nothing better to do than compromise" with "one of the critical moments of history."

While Willkie spoke in New York before the National Republican Club last night, other Lincoln Day banquets were being held in every state and the District of Columbia. Iowa reported such dinners, California 20, Utah 15.

Not all the speakers agreed with Willkie's conclusions. Some of them conceded the advisability of American aid abroad, but some took sharp exception to terms of the pending lease-lend bill. Willkie, who has endorsed it with modifications, did not mention it directly in his speech.

Nye Calls It Betrayal
Senator Nye (R-N.D.) told a Philadelphia audience that Willkie's support of the legislation presented a "betrayal" and declared that "if Mr. Willkie has not destroyed the two-party system in this country, he has at least contributed largely to its destruction."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), another opponent of the lease-lend measure, asserted that Willkie "does not and cannot speak for the Republican Party." At a banquet at Harrisonburg, Va., Taft asserted there was no "precedent or principle for the view that a defeated candidate for President is the titular head of the party."

The senator said, "but I oppose the lease-lend bill because in my opinion in its present form it authorizes the President to take us into war."
But support for the legislation came from Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, who, like Taft, was an unsuccessful contender for last year's Republican presidential nomination.

Dewey told a Washington, D. C., audience that he favored the bill, "in some 'necessary furtherance'."
Willkie, in his first speech since turning from a flying trip to the British Isles, denied that "the democratic way of life" could "revive in Britain and Europe and revive in the United States."

He greeted him when he cried "we have got it in you?"
He paid tribute not only to Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, but Robert E. Lee, hero of the south, as well. He called them "the three great figures of our public life" who in common had the quality of "magnanimity."

Criticizes Domestic Policies
While Willkie called for cooperation with the administration's aid-to-Britain program, he voiced criticism of its domestic policies.

He charged that "New Deal" seeks to win elections by government pressures and expenditures and declared it "does not understand the basic functioning of the free enterprise system."

At the Washington gathering, Dewey said he hoped the lease-lend bill would be so modified that it can be adopted with the support of both parties, serving the interest of the world that the American Democracy in full power is a strong and united nation.

He said the administration in its original request for the lend-lease bill had demanded "unprecedented grants of power," but that at the insistence of the minority the majority had accepted important amendments which removed many of the original dangers while in no way eviscerating full aid to Great Britain.

"We favor such aid," he added, "because we believe with all our hearts and all our souls in restoring all possible aid to free men resisting tyrants who would enslave them. Free Americans have ways despised by the tyrants."

War Brings Her Back Into Action

Heavily loaded with cottonseed meal, the 49-year-old Swedish barkentine "Abraham Rydberg" heads under full sail into outer Boston harbor after 69-day voyage from Santos, Brazil, terminated by a week of delay off Boston while awaiting a favorable wind into port. The windjammer had recently been a Swedish training ship but war needs have again made commercial shipping profitable for her.

City Sewage Project To Begin Next Month

President Approves $376,477 Plant for W. P. A. Program; Work Will Begin as Soon After March 15 as Weather Will Allow

Work of constructing Kingston's proposed $376,477 sewage disposal plant as a W.P.A. project will be started some time between March 15, and April 1, weather conditions permitting, it was stated this morning by County Manager Arthur F. Hallinan, in charge of the Ulster county W.P.A.

Word that the project had received President Roosevelt's approval was received in Kingston on Wednesday.

The W.P.A. appropriation for the project will amount to $248,511, while the city's contribution will be $127,966.

This amount of $376,477 includes not only the actual construction of the plant but of a large intercepting sewer that will have to be constructed from Wilbur to the plant site.

The plant will be erected on the site of the old Ulster & Delaware railroad round house and machine shops which were razed some time ago. The purchase of this site was authorized by the Common Council last year, and it is expected that title will shortly pass to the city.

The cost of the site was fixed at $5,000.

The construction of a sewage disposal plant in Kingston was made necessary by the order of the state health department forbidding the discharge of sewage into the Rondout creek or the Hudson river.

State Intervened
For several months last year the state health department held up all sewer construction work in the city, and refused to grant permission for construction of proposed new sewers as WPA projects until the city had taken steps toward the construction of the plant.

When all sewer construction work was halted by the state health department ruling the city last year took active steps toward complying with the state order, and Sandborn & Bogert, consulting engineers, who planned the improvements to the city's water system, were engaged to make a survey of available sites and to draw preliminary plans for the construction of the disposal plant.

The survey was made in the downtown section of the city by City Engineer James G. Norton and his office force.

At first it was thought it might be necessary to construct two sewage disposal plants, one in Wilbur and the other in Ponckhockie, but after considerable study had been given the matter it was decided that it would be possible to construct one plant.

SENATE COMMITTEE VOTES APPROVAL OF BRITISH-AID BILL

U. S. Makes Urgent Request All Civilians Depart From Far East

Women and Children and Non-Essential Men Mentioned; Exchange Drops

Shanghai, Feb. 13 (AP)—United States embassies and consulates sent out circulars today "urgently" advising withdrawal of American women, children and non-essential men from China, Indo-China and the Japanese empire.

The circulars were sent "both in the interests of safety and convenience of American nationals and in the interests of national security," it was announced.

A sharp drop in the Shanghai Stock Market accompanied this renewal of U. S. government advice for American departures. Leading stocks fell off seven or more points to the lower figures in many months, while the United States dollar exchange rate fell slightly.

The "further and necessary" advice to Americans to leave for home was given, the circulars said, in accordance with the U. S. State Department's evacuation suggestion of last October.

Americans were urged to take advantage of existing shipping facilities. The circulars said the state department "does not contemplate sending a special vessel or vessels to assist in withdrawals."

Simultaneously, it was reported British women and children have begun leaving Shanghai and other points in the Far East in small groups.

No British Advice

The British have not issued official advice to their nationals to evacuate, but it was stated authoritatively they are taking an increasingly serious view of the situation in southeastern Asia, with Japan steadily increasing her land, sea and air forces within striking distance of Singapore.

The text of the notice: "The American consulate general in Shanghai refers to its previous circulars addressed to American residents in this consular district communicating the advice of the state department to withdraw to the United States, and now desires to state that the department has renewed its advice, which is intended to apply particularly to women, children and to those men whose continued presence is not regarded as urgently or essentially required."

Precautionary Measure
"This advice is a further and necessary precautionary measure, and is given in the interest both of safety and convenience of American nationals and in the interest of national security."

"The state department does not contemplate sending a special vessel or special vessels to assist in the withdrawal. It is expected that American nationals will take advantage of such transportation facilities as may be currently available."

"This consulate general, pursuant to the above advice, desires again urgently to invite the attention of American citizens of the categories above mentioned to the desirability of withdrawing to the United States."

The state department announced in Washington January 9 that 6,000 Americans then were left in China, only about 1,000 less than a year ago. In explaining the relatively small exodus since the first withdrawal suggestion in October, officials said most Americans without pressing reasons for remaining already had returned home in the course of the Chinese-Japanese war, now in its fourth year.

Treasury Receipts
Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The position of the treasury February 11: Receipts $16,319,002.83. Expenditures $29,650,654.07. Net balance $2,003,239,263.54. Working balance included $1,260,340,703.77. Customs receipts for month $12,006,763.04. Receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $3,458,530,196.79. Expenditures $6,739,715,092.20. Excess of expenditures $3,281,184,895.41. Gross debt $46,003,095,498.59. Increase over previous days $16,865,245.51. Gold assets $22,129,992,765.96.

Butterflies Pay Visit
Buenos Aires, Feb. 13 (AP)—Thousands of brilliantly colored butterflies fluttered down on Buenos Aires today in an unusual visit which scientists were unable to explain. The butterflies settled in swarms in the streets and on the clothing of pedestrians.

Youths Must Report
London, Feb. 13 (AP)—The government today ordered youths of 19 to register February 22 for service with Britain's armed forces.

Yugoslav Premier Leaves Belgrade to Meet Hitler

U. S. Army Experiments With Balloon Barrage

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Creation of a balloon barrage unit at Fort Lewis, Washington, to experiment with this type of protection against air raids was announced today by under-Secretary Robert P. Patterson of the War Department. He said that the success of British balloon barrages in forcing German planes to fly at great altitudes prompted it. Another Patterson disclosure was that contracts totaling approximately $13,706,000 had been signed to start fortifying and otherwise equipping six of the eight Atlantic bases leased from the British.

Michael Berg Gets Dannemora Term; LaGuardia Pleads

Conway Gives Berg 1½-3 Years; Suspends Sentence for LaGuardia; Other Cases Put Over

At the opening of county court this morning Michael Berg, 47, of Brooklyn, under indictment for grand larceny in the second degree, arising out of a bad check charge, appeared with his attorney, Harry Gold, and pleaded guilty to the charge. Berg was charged with passing a bad check on the G.L.F. Fruit Exchange at Highland. His attorney told the court that Berg had been doing business with the G.L.F. for years, buying produce, selling it and depositing the proceeds to cover the checks issued. He said that in this case the sales did not cover the check and in addition funds that had been in the checking account had been withdrawn. Berg was arrested in Georgia by deputies from the sheriff's office and at the time, according to his attorney, was looking for work and traveling under his own name.

In sentencing Berg Judge Conway said that the set of facts in the case were not unfamiliar. He suspected that there was considerable of a "racket" in the purchase of farm products, although it was possible, as counsel had said, that Berg did not belong in the class of "petty racketeers." He gave Berg an indeterminate sentence of from 1½ to three years in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora.

Pleads Guilty
Savio T. LaGuardia appeared by his attorney, Joseph Campbell, and pleaded guilty to unlawfully possessing firearms, withdrawing his former plea of not guilty. District Attorney Haver said that the facts indicated that LaGuardia had filed an application for a pistol permit, but that it had not yet been acted upon when he was arrested. He had produced the gun when requested to do so by state troopers. Consideration was recommended. Judge Conway imposed a sentence of six months in the county jail, but suspended execution of the sentence during good behavior.

District Attorney Haver stated that Lawyer Joseph Avis was still suffering from an attack of laryngitis and the case against Paul Wesley Green, Kingston negro, charged with burglary, could not be scheduled this morning as had been tried. Witnesses were directed to be in court on Monday at 10 a. m.

In the case against Harry Clearwater, charged with driving intoxicated as a second offender, his attorney, Chris J. Flanagan, said that he was engaged today in a case before Judge Hasbrouck, official referee. Witnesses were directed to be in court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Another case involving the same offense, that against Raymond Minkler, was put over till Monday at 10 a. m. Joseph Campbell of Saugerties is attorney for Minkler.

Asks Deferred Sentence
Hugh Elwyn, attorney for Benjamin Elitzer, who on Monday pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, asked that imposition of sentence be deferred.

Circumstances Suggest the Nazis Seek Route Through Nation for Soldiers

(By The Associated Press)

Yugoslavia's Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic left Belgrade by special train for Germany at the invitation of the Nazi government today amid circumstances suggesting that Adolf Hitler may be planning pressure on the Balkan country for the passage of German troops.

Political quarters in Belgrade said the Yugoslav leader had been invited to discuss "the present political situation in the Balkans," as well as Yugoslavia's adhesion to the Axis three-power pact.

In some quarters it has been considered possible that Hitler—perhaps uneasy over Russia's traditional "big Slavic brother" protection of Bulgaria—would seek transit of Nazi troops through Yugoslavia into Greece as an alternate route instead of through Bulgaria.

Germany is reported to have 600,000 soldiers massed in Rumania for a swift thrust into southeast Europe—either through Greece or Turkey.

Russia declared a month ago that if German troops were entering Bulgaria, it was done without either her consent or knowledge.

Hitler's high command reported today that German warships prowling in the Atlantic sank 13 armed British merchant ships loaded with war supplies, and other Nazi sources called it "probably the most successful attack on a convoy in naval history."

It was indicated that at least some of the ships were of 20,000 tons or more.

'Severe Paralysis'
The Nazi high command also reported that destructive aerial blows against the Suez Canal had caused "severe paralysis" of ship traffic in that link between Britain and her Far East possessions.

"Pictures showed large ships congested north and south of the blocked points," a German communiqué said.

A Nazi spokesman commenting on the wholesale sinking of Britain's sea-borne commerce declared the world now was witnessing the first large-scale development of tactics combining warships, U-boats and long-distance scouting planes for attacks far out at sea.

The spokesman recalled the previously announced wrecking of six ships in another British convoy off the coast of Portugal last Sunday.

Danger signals rocketed over the Far East anew as United States embassies and consulates "urgently" advised American citizens in China, Indo-China and the Japanese empire to return to the United States "in the interests of national security."

No immediate explanation was forthcoming for the warning.

In Rome, it was officially announced that Premier Mussolini and Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco reached "complete agreement" on the roles of Italy and Spain in the war, on European reorganization, and on Mediterranean and African problems.

Qualified observers in the Italian capital said Spain's immediate entry into the war probably was not proposed by Il Duce, but that eventually Spain might become the base for an Axis assault on Britain's Mediterranean stronghold of Gibraltar.

Twin Attacks Expected
In London, British circles declared that twin German attacks on Gibraltar and the Suez Canal were expected "within the next 30 days" in an attempt to isolate

Measure Will Go To Senate; Debate To Begin Monday

Legislation is Passed, 15 to 8, in Same Form as Allowed in House; Proposal to Ban A. E. F. Is Rejected, Also Bid to Have Ships Returned

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee approved today, 15 to 8, the administration's aid-to-Britain bill. The legislation was approved in substantially the form voted by the House. It now goes to the Senate floor for debate, which will start Monday and which leaders hope to restrict to two weeks.

The committee acted finally after rejecting a proposal by Senators Johnson (R-Calif.) and Ellender (D-La.) to restrict the President's authority to send American armed forces out of the western hemisphere.

The committee rejected also an amendment proposed by Senator McNary (R-Ore.) which would have stated specifically that any ships transferred to foreign countries must be returned.

No amendment was put forward in the committee on Wendell L. Willkie's suggestion that aid under the legislation be limited to Britain, China and Greece.

The British aid bill would permit the President to transfer, lease or lend war materials to nations whose defense the President considers vital to the security of the United States. Transfers of existing equipment would be limited to $1,300,000,000 and could be made by the President only after consultation with army and navy chiefs.

The measure also would authorize the repair or re-equipping of belligerent ships in American yards and would permit the President to communicate "defense information" to warring "democracies."

No appropriation is included in the measure, but the President is expected to ask funds for its operation immediately if it is enacted.

Under the committee-approved bill, he also could obtain Congressional authority from time to time to make future contracts. Funds for these contracts would be requested after they were made.

The legislation would expire July 1, 1943 and all contracts executed under it would terminate by July 1, 1946.

Among other so-called Congressional "safeguards" written into the measure was a provision giving Congress power to terminate operation of the bill at any time by a majority vote, a clause requiring Presidential progress reports every 90 days and a statement that nothing in the act should authorize American naval convoys of war material shipments or the entry of United States vessels into combat zones.

Manner of Voting
Fourteen Democrats and one Republican voted to send the bill to the Senate floor while five Republicans, two Democrats and a Progressive opposed. The vote:

Democrats for — Chairman George of Georgia, and Senators Harrison of Mississippi, Wagner of New York, Connally of Texas, Thomas of Utah, Van Nuys of Indiana, Murray of Montana, Pepper of Florida, Green of Rhode Island, Barkley of Kentucky, Reynolds of North Carolina, Guffey of Pennsylvania, Glass of Virginia and Byrnes of South Carolina.

Republican for — White of Maine.

Democrats against — Gillette of Iowa and Clark of Missouri.

Republicans against — Johnson of California, Capper of Kansas, Vandenberg of Michigan, Nye of North Dakota and Shipstead of Minnesota.

Progressive against — LaFollette of Wisconsin.

Frank Is Nominated
Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Jerome N. Frank of New York, now chairman of the securities commission, to be a judge of the second federal circuit court of appeals, which embraces New York, Vermont and Connecticut.

There has been speculation for some time that Frank would leave the commission.

Rockefeller Voted In House Against Lend-Lease Bill

Washington, D. C. (Special)—Congressman Lewis K. Rockefeller of New York's 27th District, said this morning at his headquarters in the House Office Building here that he voted last Saturday against the House passage of the Lend-Lease Bill in its present form because it gives the President unlimited power to delegate aid not alone to Britain but to any other nation now at war.

"Voting this power to Mr. Roosevelt," the Congressman stated, "is akin to removing all the safeguards that this nation should maintain against the threats of becoming actively involved in Europe's conflict."

One phrase of the bill, Mr. Rockefeller pointed out, says in substance that any existing law which might in some way hamper the program of aid to Britain can be conveniently shelved by the President without first consulting Congress, any authorized committee or advisory board.

"Such free hand dealing will jeopardize our own drive to attain a state of total defense," he said, "and will place our financial and industrial resources at the disposal of the President who may or may not wisely administer his authority."

It is his belief that the United States has neither the wealth, surplus war equipment nor basic raw materials to share on a large scale with the decadent warring countries of the world. "Our aid," he continued, "is not confined to England. Supplies we have been shipping Russia, many believe, are being sent through the back door to Germany. Likewise what we send to England will be distributed to the many fronts of the allied forces in northern and eastern Africa as well as Greece. To these war theatres may be added any day the heretofore peaceful Bulgaria."

Congressman Rockefeller further stated that he believed the American public is not thoroughly informed on all phases of the Lend-Lease Bill otherwise it would not be so popularly endorsed. Of the hundreds of letters from constituents that advised his action on the bill, ninety-nine per cent opposed any trend that might lead to our entering the war. "On the other hand," he stated, "there was unanimous approval of aid to Britain short of war."

As these voiced sentiments of the people demand a check on federal war-aid legislation, in response the House minority group attempted to check the debt limit of the Lend-Lease Bill," said the Congressman. When it was suggested that a "blanket check" of $7,000,000,000 be written for the President, strong opposition overruled the amendment. He added, "such an amendment may receive the same fate in the Senate."

Mr. Rockefeller stated he did not approve of the present action in the house to increase the bonded indebtedness of the nation to $65,000,000,000. "If we already have a deficit," he reasoned, "it is not logical that we should borrow more to aid England and thereby increase our national debt. Because we are the only leading power in the world today that has a sound credit and is deserving of trust, we should not undermine our financial stability for the future."

One of the outstanding victories of the House minority groups, Mr. Rockefeller commented, was in retrieving the power to kill the Lend-Lease Bill by the instrumentality of concurrent resolutions of both houses. But this amendment, he remarked, has not the respect of the opposing leaders, according to a report that Democratic Leader John W. McCormack and Speaker Sam Rayburn are of the belief that the President's power under the bill to be terminated by joint resolutions of Congress will not be "any limitation at all."

"This is what I call," Congressman Rockefeller said, "the initial abuse of power."

POLICE BATTLE PICKETING SANDHOGS

Two policemen and a detective collar this picketing sandhog in no uncertain way during the third successive day of clashes between New York's Finest and sandhogs near the site of construction of the new Battery-Brooklyn tunnel in New York. ## Republican Views Clash Over Aid parts who wage war on small nations and helpless minorities." Dewey proposed a six-point program for the Republican party, including an "unswerving determination to solve our problems by constitutional means within the framework of a free republic" and a broad program of "industrial decentralization."

Calls Willkie Drum-Beater

Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.), who led the fight in the house against the lend-lease bill, charged at a Baltimore party rally that Willkie is now beating the war drums more furiously than the interventionists and war-makers of the democratic party.

Declaring he was "astounded" by Willkie's proposal to transfer American destroyers to Britain, Fish added: "If Mr. Willkie proclaimed any such views in a presidential campaign, he would not have carried a single state."

Fish departed from his prepared statement at one point to say that Willkie's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this week came "pretty close to being treason to America."

Several of his hearers walked out and Fish, asserting that he wanted "the American people and the gentlemen who walked from the room to know the truth" about America's armaments, declared that "those of us in congress who have spent 20 years studying these problems" knew more about foreign affairs than a man who spent one week in England.

White Backs Willkie

But at Tucson, Ariz., William Allen White, noted Empire State editor, said he thought Willkie was "just dead right" in his views on how to meet "this crisis."

Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), House Minority leader, appeared with Dewey at the Washington banquet and described the Republican party as still "virile." He asserted it would not be "merely a party of opposition."

Martin voted against the lend-lease bill but did not mention it at all in his speech.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, speaking at Brooklyn, N. Y., criticized the administration's domestic policies. Then without saying how he would vote on the lend-lease bill, he declared:

"Americans whose minds are not closed to the channels of reliable information are convinced that without the materials we alone can supply, England cannot long stand."

"I think there can be no doubt as to whom our sympathy and assistance should be directed; * * * there can be no doubt that our own welfare demands it."

Light Cuts Night Deaths

"Light is essential for the safe movement of fast automobile night traffic. The accident records bear out this fact," said L. J. Schrenk, general superintendent, Public Lighting commission, Detroit.

There are few people better qualified than Mr. Schrenk to speak on this subject because of the splendid accident reduction record made in Detroit, under his direction, during the last four years.

"There are more than 100 persons alive today who would have been dead if adequate visibility had not been provided during the last three years on 31 miles of Detroit streets where the fatality rate was the highest. Had these streets been lighted six years ago and had the volume of traffic been equal to today's, an additional 100 lives would have been saved," said Mr. Schrenk.

Before the new lighting was installed, the night to day fatality ratio in Detroit was 7 to 1, and the installation of modern high visibility lighting reduced the ratio to 1.3 to 1.

Antelope Face Roundup
Some ranches of west Texas are becoming overstocked with antelope, as is evidenced by reports that they are getting more than their share of the grass, much to the disadvantage of range cattle. To remedy this condition the state game commission is making plans for a roundup of the excess antelope and their removal to ranches where owners have asked for colonies of them.

Antelope multiply rapidly and upon the ranch of Lee Fisher in the upper Rio Grande border a small herd of them has increased until it now numbers more than 500 head.

Rounding up the animals that are to be moved to new grazing grounds will afford a group of selected cowboys plenty of exciting sport, game protection officials said. The men who do this work will be the most efficient ropers and drivers of west Texas. They will camp while collecting and transferring the antelope to the several ranches which have been selected for them.

Camel Fossils Found
Camels that once roamed the dry grasslands that are now rock strata beneath the soil of South Dakota are represented in fossil collections sent back to the Field Museum of Natural History here by an expedition under the leadership of Paul O. McGrew. The camels lived in America during Miocene time, about 18,000,000 years ago. Like the primitive horses that were their contemporaries, they later became extinct in North America. Mr. McGrew's search for fossils has been conducted largely in the vicinity of Wounded Knee, famous as a battlefield where white soldiers fought Indians in the later phases of the plains insurrections. The party has now moved on to northwestern Nebraska, where skeletons of other extinct camel species are being dug out.

New York state's rural areas grew faster in population during 1939-40 period than in any of the 16th census shows.

'U-Turn' is All Right If for Sake of Safety

MILWAUKEE.—Tom White, an engineering student, made an illegal U-turn on an icy Milwaukee street, but got off with a suspended sentence when he explained that:

"Due to wheels accelerating in a given plane and the force of gravity acting in an angle to the rotating plane, it caused rotation perpendicular to the plane of the wheel rotation. In the interest of safety, I felt it better to complete the turn of rotation rather than break the turn and stall in the middle of the street."

In other words, his car skidded on the ice and he thought it safer to complete the skid than to apply the brakes.

Glacier on Mt. Rainier

To Vanish in Few Years

WASHINGTON.—One of the 23 glaciers covering Mount Rainier's 14,408 foot eminence is melting fast and will disappear completely within a few years, the national park service reports.

Stevens glacier, named for Gen. Hazard Stevens, first man to reach Rainier's summit in 1870, has become separated from the parent body of ice by a distance of 200 yards. Located on the south side of the mountain, the glacier has melted away until all that remains is a thin piece of ice a quarter mile long.

Light snowfall and high temperature during the last year contributed to the glacier's end, the service reports.

New Ruptured Blood Vessels

Young Sidney Smith Jr. of Chicago is being hailed by the medical profession for developing a simple method of healing ruptured blood vessels.

So simple is the new method that it can best be described by comparison with the common duty of every housewife—darning.

Smith developed the process of sewing up ruptured blood vessels on the darning principle, using sugar rods, covered with a film of oil, as the darning ball over which the blood vessel can be stitched together.

After stitching is done, the sugar rod dissolves and disappears.

Smith, 28, has received his M. D. degree from the University of Chicago and was awarded the Harry Ginsburg Memorial prize for his research work in developing the new process.

Brilliant Fathers, Ordinary Sons

Brilliant fathers usually have ordinary sons because the boy has also a mother, and though the father may be a genius, the mother may not be. Half of the cells in your body come from your mother and the other half from your father.

The U. S. army's most seasoned pilots are being given special training at Wright Field in high-altitude flying.

Australia Faces Utmost Gravity, Fadden Declares

Deputy Prime Minister Is of Opinion Country Should Prepare for Gloomy Events

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 13 (AP)—A. W. Fadden, deputy prime minister of Australia, declared today that the war had reached a new stage of the utmost gravity to Australia and indicated that "grave advices" concerning the situation in the Pacific had been received.

Information on the situation was received during a session of the war advisory council which was dramatically adjourned pending appearance of service chiefs at a meeting of the war cabinet tomorrow.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, commander of British forces in the Far East with headquarters at Singapore, was invited to attend tomorrow's urgent meeting. He is on a visit here while Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies is in Africa, inspecting Australian forces.

Flyers Find Sheep

As two Royal Air Force flying instructors were practicing at their training grounds in northern England a local farmer asked if they would locate some of his sheep which had strayed. The flyers went up and scanned the country until they spotted the strays, which were soon restored to the farmer, according to a London report.

1. She's a Detroit girl; Irish, red-headed and sweet 16. Has a sister in the films named Mary Brodell, but changed own name because it was too much like Joan Blondell. Who?

2. In "Pioneer Woman" Barbara Stanwyck will "age" to 100 years. Can you name any other picture in which a character was supposed to "age" even more?

3. What new films have for heroines (a) An old-maid school-teacher? (b) A Virginia girl returning home from New York? (c) A career girl who believes marriage should be begun platonically?

4. Make-up makers, besides the Westmores and Factors, include two women stars. Do you know them?

5. Your series primer: Who are (a) Maisie? (b) Andy Hardy? (c) Dr. Kildare? (d) Henry Aldrich? (e) The Saint? (f) Charlie Chan?

Count 20 points for each question answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 excellent and 90 or above colossal.

NEW PALTZ

School Reports

New Paltz, Feb. 13—Principal Ray Cunningham of the Central high school reports 24 passing papers out of a class of 25 in intermediate algebra in Regents. The one failure is the first that John Lake instructor has had in this subject during his teaching career both in New Paltz and in schools where he taught previously. The students receiving a passing mark are Lewis Ackert, Rosemarie Atkins, Gilbert Bevier, Frances Burrows, William Clinton, Edwin Curtis, Carolyn Dressel, Leora Ellis, Robert Elting, Carol Fein, Gloria Gardner, Mary Glancy, Duane Greene, Jr., Elizabeth Haggerty, Mary Jane Hasbrouck, Andrea Irwin, Murray Jenkins, Jean Parker, Charles Savage, Rose Schulman, Francis Smiley, Helen Van Alst and Harry Zimmerman, Jr. Advance algebra had a 100 per cent record, Dorothy Atkins, Robert Elting, David Jewett, Elizabeth Lent and Donald Terwilliger passed. This subject is also taught by Mr. Lake. Economics had only one failure. Those who passed were Mary Christensen, Betty Coffey, Richard Feeley, Mary Grindrod, Josanna Hoffman, Murray Jenkins, Angela Mercurio, Eleanor Rose, Eugene Sheeley and Charles Staats.

Village Notes

New Paltz, Feb. 13—Highland Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star met Tuesday night with Matron Florence Coutant and Patron W. Herman Jordan presiding. Refreshments were in charge of a committee of New Paltz members. They were: Mrs. Minnie Schmalke, chairman; Mrs. Eva Jewett, Mrs. Bertha Van Alst, Mrs. Ilma Snyder and Mrs. Mary Smith. Emily Miller and Axel Aspergren of Coscob, Conn., were married at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Martin Decker in New Paltz Sunday afternoon.

Joyce and Shirley Knickerbocker have been ill with the grip. Robert Palmer, who has been ill, is able to be up for short periods.

In the senior-sophomore boys interclass basketball game at the high school last week, the seniors came out the winners by the narrow margin of one point.

Early Bible Papyri Found in Holy Land

Large Fragments of New Testament Unearthed.

BALTIMORE. — Discovery of some of the most extensive fragments of New Testament manuscript that have yet come to light was announced to the American Philological association at its annual meeting.

The find was made on the ancient road to Mount Sinai, at Aja-el-Hafir, not far from the modern Egyptian border and the last village on the route of the pilgrimage to the holy mountain. It was regarded as of prime importance in that it may throw additional light on the character of early Biblical texts.

Three fragments of manuscript were unearthed in the excavation of ruins of a church and monastery at Aja-el-Hafir.

One of the fragments consists of some 30 consecutive pages of The Gospel according to St. John. There is a second, smaller fragment from the same book, while the third contains scattered pieces of the epistles of St. Paul.

Dr. Lionel Casson, a New York university archaeologist, announced the find in a paper on New Testament fragments and other Christian pieces unearthed in southern Palestine by the Colt Archeological expedition.

Although the expedition returned to this country in 1938, the manuscript fragments were not identified until late this summer and still are being studied by scholars at New York university.

H. Dunscombe Colt, a New Yorker, was field director of the expedition and the discoverer of the papyri.

Dr. Ernest L. Hettich, who is working on the manuscript fragments with Dr. Casson, Dr. Casper J. Kraemer and other scholars, dated them as "apparently the late Seventh century A. D."

Northwest Inhabited 8,000 Years Ago, Scientist Finds

PHILADELPHIA.—The first evidence that man existed in the northwestern part of the United States 8,000 or more years ago and fashioned crude instruments to slay elephants, camels and horses for food was presented to the American Philosophical society.

Dr. L. S. Cressman of the University of Oregon discovered the remnants of the lost civilization beneath a bed of volcanic lava in south-central Oregon.

Never before had scientists discovered evidence that man existed in North America in those prehistoric times in areas other than the Southwest and the Great Plains.

It had been thought that man came to North America by crossing the Bering straits, moving immediately down to the warm Southwest.

Dr. Cressman's discovery indicates that some of the invaders stopped in Oregon and, armed only with crude stone spears, sallied out from mountain caves to prey on camels, elephants and other animal species which since long have disappeared from this part of the world.

Brooklyn is the largest of New York's boroughs, in population, with 2,698,285 persons.

Chicken supper will be served in the Methodist Church at 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock.

New 'Y' Secretary Outlines Program At Rotary Dinner

Gives Facts and Figures
About the Urgent Need of Support and What Can Be Done

George Goodfellow, who recently was appointed general secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., spoke before the members of the Rotary Club on Wednesday. Opening his remarks with a tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

In his discussion of what a Rotarian is worth to the Y.M.C.A. and what the Y.M.C.A. is worth to a Rotary, he cited the following examples of what mutual cooperation could eventually accomplish:

Doctors in Rotary could help put on a series of lectures on health, dealing with hygiene, posture, nutrition and care of the teeth, eyes, ears, nose and throat.

The bankers and accountants could help the "Y" install a simplified system of business and accounting.

The newspaper, advertising and promotion men could help with human interest stories and promotion material, assisting the Y.M.C.A. in getting its message across to the people.

Other ways in which all could help were outlined in part by the speaker:

Supplying the names of young people in the community who are leaders.

Giving the names of young people who need guidance and help.

Mentioning the names of men and women who have special skills useful to youth.

Offering the names of good speakers in nearby communities or elsewhere.

Suggesting inactive people whom the Y.M.C.A. might interest in giving financial backing to help wipe out the deficit.

In describing what the Y.M.C.A. can do to supplement the work of the Rotary Club, the general secretary emphasized the program for underprivileged boys.

He also stressed the plans for the more fortunate boys of the community.

That there was a definite lack of civic interest on the part of the youth of Kingston, was the impression he gathered during his first week's work here.

In addition to working with boys, Mr. Goodfellow sees a great opportunity for the Y.M.C.A. to provide a program for Kingston's young people between the ages of 18 to 28. They would have inexpensive and wholesome recreation, guidance in continuing their studies and assistance in job adjustments.

Here also he stated the "Y" should cooperate with the churches in helping young people get acquainted with leaders in the church of their preference.

One of the best ways for the "Y" to repay Rotary for its interest in the "Y" is for the Y.M.C.A. to do all in its power to raise the moral level of the Kingston youth, he asserted.

In discussing finances, the new general secretary said that the local Y.M.C.A. owed about $8,000 in small to medium sized bills. Because of these debts the credit standing has been practically ruined. He proposed that all the creditors be called together and all the facts be placed at their disposal so that with their continued help a plan might be worked out to clear up the debts.

He advocated a pay as you go policy and staying within the budget.

Residents of Kingston owe the Y.M.C.A. about $1,000 in current pledges, he declared. That would help to pay off many of the small claims immediately or permit to make payments on some of the larger bills.

Summarizing his remarks he said:

"The Kingston Y.M.C.A. is concerned with what is happening to Kingston's young people."

"It needs advice and friendly help from the citizens of Kingston and surrounding communities."

"Its present management will do all in its power to operate on a sound financial basis and welcomes constructive criticism at all times."

"If the people of Kingston will support the 'Y' during the coming year, I trust at that time I may be invited to return to the Rotary Club with a favorable accounting of my stewardship."

Composers Hail Japan
Two performances of the special music written by eminent contemporary composers of France, Hungary, Italy and Germany in honor of the Twenty-sixth Centennial Celebration of the Japanese Empire were given in Tokyo for the benefit of the general public. They were preceded by a premiere performance attended by six imperial princes and princesses. Government officials and members of the various embassies and consulates, in brilliant uniforms, also attended.

Smothered Hamburg Patties Almost Prepare Themselves

Home-Style Vegetable Soup Gives Inexpensive Meat
Extra Flavor and Deliciousness

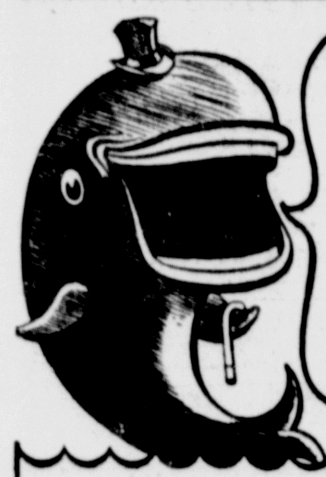

By FRANCES PECK

AN IMPORTANT thing to remember when you are trying to cut down on the cost of the meat you use in your meals is that flavor is the point on which your family judges it. Thus the least expensive cuts prepared with sauces and seasonings that set them off may easily become their favorites.

Smothered Hamburg Patties—which are made by simmering the meat in vegetable soup—is a specialty they will ask for again and again. For in this homey dish meat flavors are at their best and vegetables at their most succulent. And no doubt you will be more than glad to serve it often, since it is one of those dishes that practically prepares itself. You might have potatoes baking in the oven at the same time the hamburgers are absorbing the delicious flavors of the soup, and for a crisp and tart note in this meal have fresh cucumber pickle.

Smothered Hamburg Patties: Combine 1 tablespoon butter, melted and 1 cup soft bread crumbs. Add 1 1/2 lbs. round steak, ground! 1 1/2 teaspoons salt and 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, mixing well. Form into 8 flat cakes, then surround each with a slice of bacon, fastening with a toothpick. Dip the patties in flour and brown them on both sides in a small amount of fat. Add 1 medium (16-oz.) can home-style vegetable soup. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 30 to 40 minutes. Pour off excess fat and thicken gravy just before serving if necessary. Arrange patties on heated platter and pour gravy over. Serves 8.

Local Death Record

Maria in Another Jam
As Mary Magdalena Alencar drank at a bar in Nova Lima, Brazil, an ex-friend, Geraldo Barbosa, entered, approached the woman and sang "Mary, dear Mary, come home with me now." Maria Magdalena turned to greet a friend she plunged a knife into his back, penetrating his heart. Over his body Maria said ruefully, "I killed one in Espirito Santo, and now I go and kill one here. Doggone it, I'm always in a jam." She now faces a second term for murder.

Priest Gets Thrill

While on an auto journey recently a priest of the Drieffenstein Mission near Gwelo, South Africa, had more than his quota of thrills. His car stuck in a swollen stream and he worked knee-deep in the water to free it with his jack. While taking a rest he saw a crocodile approach. The beast, however, seized an ox grazing on the bank and disappeared with its prey into the water.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness and expression of sympathy, for use of cars and for the beautiful floral tributes, at the time of the loss of our beloved daughter and sister, Elizabeth Chick.

(Signed)

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Chick, Sr. and children.

Horror of Today Were

Predicted Century Ago

George Bancroft not only was the foremost American historian of his day, but he was in addition a famous statesman and orator. He established the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. In 1846 he became minister to Great Britain and in 1867 minister to Germany. He died in Washington, D. C., January 17, 1891. Among his most celebrated addresses was the one on "The People in Art, Government and Religion," which he delivered before the Adelphi society of Williams college in August, 1855. An excerpt from this speech follows:

"... absolute power has never succeeded and can never succeed in suppressing a single truth. An idea once revealed may find its admission into every living breast and live there. Like God, it becomes immortal and omnipresent. The movement of the species is upward, irresistibly upward. The individual is often lost; Providence never disowns the race. No principle once promulgated has ever been forgotten. No 'timely tramp' of a despot's foot ever trod out one idea. The world cannot retrograde; the dark ages cannot return. Dynasties perish, seeds are buried, nations have been victims to error of martyrs for right; humanity has always been on the advance, gaining maturity, universality, and power."

Ancient Schooner Takes

On Sail After 22 Years

CAMDEN, MAINE.—Wars have twice given a new lease on life to the three-masted schooner George E. Klinek.

Built in 1904 at Mystic, Conn., the windjammer plied out of New York in the granite trade for years. She was ready for the boneyard when World War created a shortage of ships and kept her in service. She retired to a Camden wharf when the armistice was signed.

The European war now has created a new demand for bottoms, and a Portland lumber dealer ordered the Klinek reconitioned for coastal service between Portland and Jacksonville, Fla.

Capt. Lewis MacFarland, who supervised installation of auxiliary gasoline engines, found trouble in shipping a crew of "old salts." Most of the experienced windjammers, he discovered, were too old for service on slippery decks or aloft in a blow.

Only other three-masters still in the American Mercantile Service are the Lucy Evelyn of Jonesport and the Rebecca R. Douglass of Calais.

Average U. S. Family Now

Numbers Less Than Four

WASHINGTON.—For the first time in history the average American family now numbers less than four persons.

The census bureau, analyzing the results of the 1940 census, reported that the contemporary household has an average of 3.8 persons.

These statistics meant a continuation of the steady decline which has been in progress since the first family computation was made 50 years ago, and corresponded with annual figures of a declining birth rate.

British Plan to Make

Rayon Out of Seaweed

LEEDS, YORKSHIRE, ENGLAND.—A method to make rayon from seaweed is announced by Prof. O. B. Speakman, of Leeds university.

Professor Speakman says the seaweed rayon is cheaper to manufacture than the present rayons. He did the research for an unnamed British firm. Production of the new material is expected to start within a month.

Lady Chamberlain Dies in London

Widow of Sir Austen Chamberlain III Short Time; Member of 'Cliveden Set'

IVY MURIAL CHAMBERLAIN

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Lady Chamberlain, widow of Sir Austen Chamberlain, died here today after a short illness.

Ivy Murial, Lady Chamberlain, widow of Sir Austen Chamberlain, Britain's ex-foreign minister, was one of the quick-witted members of the famous "Cliveden set," the group of aristocratic intelligentsia which was an acknowledged power in shaping British policy toward compromise with spread of the European dictatorship idea.

While that clique took its name from Lady Nancy Astor's residence, Cliveden House, where British officialdom mingled with financiers, newspaper owners and the London diplomatic corps, there were those who considered Lady Chamberlain as more truly the leading spirit of the famous "tea fights" than was the hostess herself.

Lady Chamberlain's town house, 24 Egerton Terrace, London, S.W. 3, was a quieter but equally effective gathering place for conservative leaders. In the tenure as prime minister of Neville Chamberlain, half-brother of Sir Austen, this residence came to be known as "an underground station to 10 Downing Street" and those who didn't like the prime minister's "realistic" swing toward Italy and Germany as an insurance against war, charged that he was subservient to the "teacup pressure" of his sister-in-law.

Benito Mussolini and his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister of Italy, were Lady Chamberlain's chief foreign contacts. Usually when important questions were pending between London and Rome she would happen to be visiting the Italian capital, or hardly on the Riviera. She possessed Italy's Gold Medal of Merit.

She was in Rome in March, 1938, when Neville Chamberlain visited the Eternal City and came away with a provisional agreement for withdrawal of "foreign volunteers" from the Spanish civil war. Accused then by Arthur Barnes, laborite M.P., of meddling in British foreign affairs, she retorted:

"I come to Italy every year and always see Il Duce. But there is nothing in that."

A few months later she toured insurgent Spain as the guest of Generalissimo Franco.

The Philippine Islands are the most densely populated of all United States possessions.

Woman Collects Human Skulls as Quaker Hobby

CHILLICOTHE, OHIO.—Geraldine Lesco collects skulls for a hobby.

"Some people save coins, stamps, paper match covers and the like—but I have skulls," she said. "I don't think there's anything unusual or ghastly in the hobby."

The collection began when Harry Poe, walking along the Sciota river, found a skull on a gravel bank. He gave it to police.

Miss Lesco, who is an assistant to a doctor, asked for it.

Then Sheriff Joseph Vincent presented her with a skull found by two fishermen on a river gravel bar near a sand and gravel plant. As other skulls were found from time to time, they were given to the young woman.

"City police, the sheriff's department and the coroner have promised to help build my collection by turning over any loose skulls which come into their possession," Miss Lesco said.

Sand Panned on Beach

For Long-Lost Coins

HAMPTON BEACH, N. H.—Sifting sands for money is proving profitable at Hampton Beach this year.

Unusually high and strong tides have stirred up sands that have been undisturbed for years—resulting in numerous "coin panning" expeditions. Some persons have found as much as $15 in dimes, quarters and half-dollars in two days.

A few of the coins found bore the dates of 1803, 1822 and 1835.

R. J. Boltz Arrested

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—Robert J. Boltz, 54-year-old Philadelphia, Pa., investment counselor sought since October on charges of defrauding clients of $892,000, was arrested today in this city where he had been employed by an insurance company. Police said Boltz disappeared October 22 leaving unaccounted for approximately $2,500,000 in money invested in his "North American Investment Fund, Inc." A federal grand jury handed up a 21-point indictment charging him with defrauding 20 persons, and later a Pennsylvania grand jury indicted him on 185 counts charging embezzlement and fraudulent conversion.

Laddie Dies Today

Monterey, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP)—Ten-year-old Laddie, his canine heart weakened by grief, died today at the Monterey Presidio—four days after the 2,000-mile flight which brought him to his beloved master, a private at Fort Ord. Dr. R. I. Lovell, veterinarian for the 7th Division, said the airman's death was due to heart collapse and old age. Private Everett Scott, whose departure from a Chanute, Kan., farm to serve in the army caused Laddie to begin a self-imposed fast, was on duty when his faithful friend died.

Architects to Meet At Newburgh Club

Myron S. Teller to Speak on 'Old Stone Houses'

The Mid-Hudson Valley Architectural Society will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at the City Club, Newburgh, 7:30 o'clock. Herbert T. Seipel of that city is chairman of the entertainment committee and has obtained Myron S. Teller of Kingston, the society's president, as speaker of the evening. The subject of Mr. Teller's talk will be "Old Stone Houses." Since Mr. Teller has devoted many years of research and study to his subject and, as an architect, has performed commendable work in the practical restoration of many old stone houses in Ulster county and elsewhere, his talk should be inspiring to the members of the society. Mr. Teller's devotion to his work in this connection has foundation in his admiration of the craftsmanship typical of the old houses and in his sincere regard for tradition and the historical value of these unpretentious but important monuments of home life in our country when it was young.

A regular business session will follow Mr. Teller's address. The location of Kingston, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, and for the first time, Middletown, will be represented at the meeting.

A statistician estimates that if a single train were assigned to travel all railway trackage in the United States at 60 miles an hour, it would take 292 days.

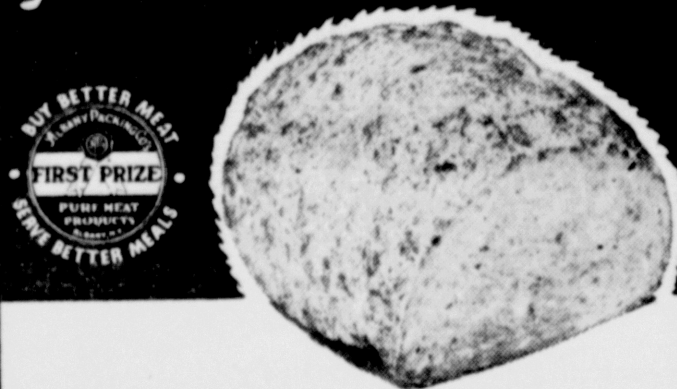

Mexico will fight profiteering.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste
If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause lagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with astringent and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

When he had finished the meal, he took the dishes back to the first restaurant—paid his check.

Men's Community Club Of Port Ewen Meets

Port Ewen, Feb. 13—The Men's Community Club of Port Ewen presented another of their series of social evenings Tuesday evening, February 11. Their guests were the Holy Name Society, Port Ewen Fire Department, Port Ewen Drum Corps, Boy Scout Troop No. 26, official board of the Methodist Church and the Ulster Park Men's Club.

The program consisted of a group of moving pictures including a reel of safety pictures, a picture on life saving and artificial respiration, a picture entitled "The Moving X-Ray," "Tobacco Land," "Fred Vining's 'Pleasure Time'" and the main attraction of the evening, the American League baseball picture, "Batting Around the American League."
This picture showed the various phases of the American pastime and presented the stars of the American League, demonstrating the art of pitching, hitting and fielding. It also contained many scenes of the games of the last World Series between Cincinnati and Detroit. After the entertainment refreshments were served and a social time followed.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Several conservation panel exhibits are on display in the Kingston High School this week. The exhibits were placed under the direction of George E. Stevens, supervisor of exhibits of the Conservation Department. The exhibits are three wing panel type, illustrated with colored photographs of actual scenes of conservation activities featuring game management, reforestation, historic sites, forest fire, blister rust and gypsy moth control. Catchy slogans round out each of the panels such as "A Game Crop is a Community Asset"; "Prevent Forest Fires. It Pays"; "It's Your Loss When Forests Burn"; "Plant Trees on Idle Land. Turn Loss Into a Profit"; "Conservation Means Wise Use."

The panels point out some interesting facts. The forest fire panel states that 90 per cent of all forest fires in New York state are caused by carelessness in burning rubbish, dropping cigarettes or tobacco and leaving camp fires; that forests protect watersheds, provide places for recreation, produce wood products, beautify landscapes, insure health, benefit fish and game. However, fires mean barren watersheds, no campsites, no forest industries and scenery destroyed. Three important functions are brought out in the game panel, namely, game management, game research and game propagation. Handling of such factors as food, shelter, protection of breeding stock and harvest of the surplus so as to produce a maximum game crop is called "Game Management." Game research points the way to producing and maintaining a surplus while game propagation through artificial means, helps assure an annual seed stock of game.

The reforestation panel points out that there are between four and five million acres of idle land in New York state better suited to the growing of trees, forests and wood crops than for any other purpose. "Trees for reforestation" are raised by the state and can be purchased at cost of production (from $2 to $5 per thousand) for reforesting privately owned lands, while trees are furnished without cost for reforesting publicly owned land. Town, county, village, school and service organizations properties are considered public land. Twelve hundred trees planted six feet apart each way plant one acre and usually two men can set 1,000 trees in a day. The blister rust panel stresses the eradication of currant and gooseberry bushes in controlling the spread of this disease to white pine trees. The disease does not spread direct from pine to pine but must live part of its life on these bushes to complete its life cycle. It further mentions that white pine is one of our most valuable forest trees and no matter how young a stand may be, it is too valuable to neglect. The gypsy moth panel points out that intensive control work within the barrier zone of 3,479,000 acres extending from the Canadian border to Long Island Sound has held the gypsy moth east of the Hudson. Since 1923, over 807 gypsy moth colonies have been found and more than 163,879 egg masses destroyed. The Conservation Department is custodian of 24 historic sites located chiefly within the Champlain, Mohawk and Hudson valleys, according to the descriptive matter on this panel and it also asserts that more than 800,000 persons visit these sites annually.

Kerhonkson Union School Activities

Bill of Rights Week

The school week beginning Monday, February 17, has been designated by the Board of Regents as Bill of Rights Week. This observance is important for two reasons. First of all, the time has been set so as to include Washington's Birthday. Second, a focus on the Bill of Rights articles in the Federal and State Constitutions at a time when men and women are thinking of the democratic way of life as they have never done before, will give added significance to civic responsibility and citizenship in the school and in the community. Teachers are planning to conduct full and meaningful discussions. Both the elementary and the high school assemblies will provide a climax on Friday, February 21. Miss Ida Besedesky, school librarian, has prepared an outline for homeroom discussion which will be used as a basis for the program throughout the school.

School children, this week, are celebrating the birth of Abraham Lincoln with a holiday. Bulletin boards throughout the school indicate the high regard with which boys and girls revere the memory of our Civil War President. Many little known facts have come to light during the homeroom discussions this week.

Senior Play

Although the rain fell steadily last Friday evening, it did not dampen the spirits of those who participated in or were spectators at the Senior play. The play, "Good Gracious Grandma," was a comedy farce which provided an evening of fun and enjoyment. The production was directed by Senior Advisor, Robert L. Dikovic. The cast included: Bert Greene, Herbert Poppel, Doris Bilyeu, Shirley Hedden, Jean Wiley, Melville Orgel, Raphael Scherr, William Upright and Marilyn DeWitt. Plans are under way to present the play to the students who were unable to attend, at an afternoon performance some time next week.

Assemblies

Pupils in the high school assembly next Friday will listen to Philip Miller, resident engineer of the Rosoff Construction Co. Mr. Miller will discuss the subject, "Water Works Project Jobs for Boys". Assemblies in the near future will include such speakers as George W. DeLavater of Hartwick College, John Schoonmaker of Accord and Millard Davis of Kerhonkson. A movie is scheduled for March 7. Parents are invited to attend these assemblies which are conducted every Friday afternoon at 3:05 o'clock.

Elementary School Activities

The "Classroom Chatter," the regular elementary school newspaper, is published every two weeks by the boys and girls of grades 1 to 6. The editorial staff consists of: Editor-in-chief, Kay Proper; art Editor, Marilyn Meschikow; reporters, Grade 6, Frank Green, Grade 5, Arthur DeGroot, Grade 4, Jason Decker, Grade 3, Georgia Stiles, Grade 2, Jean Günsolus; distribution, Vernon Proper. This publication enables pupils to express themselves in a medium other than through their regular school work. Some of the subjects chosen for the last issue were: Infantile Paralysis, Our Flying Carpet to Mexico, Yellowstone Park, Valentines and a story, "Haunted Flying Field," which is continuous from week to week and is being written by Roland Vandermark.

Another activity which is popular with the elementary school boys is the Kerhonkson Junior Citizens Organization. These boys engage in various club activities under the direction of Fay T. Axton. Officers include: President, Erwin Gutkin; vice president, Jas. Decker; secretary, Paul Bergeron; treasurer, Nelson Brown.

Valentine's Day always provides an interesting experience for elementary school pupils. Valentine boxes are being placed in the rooms and postmen appointed for the distribution of Valentines next Friday. Most of these are made by the pupils during their art and activity periods.

High School Activities

One of the high spots of the school year and a project in which every student can participate is the annual "High School Capers." The president of the Student Association has appointed a committee to meet with the faculty and to discuss plans for this annual affair. The committee includes Robert Lacy, Robert Terwilliger, Robert Greene and Martin Burrows.

Students have already offered a number of suggestions through the medium of the suggestion box in the rear of the study hall in the high school. The show will probably be presented some time before Easter.

Yesterday a group of girls drove to Ellenville to participate in a play day. The program was arranged by Physical Director John C. Braun and was chaperoned by Mrs. Olive Eck.

A real service is given by the Student Commentator for the high school association. It is he who answers questions out of the student question box. It is he who attempts to interpret and guide student opinion. Now he has a new job. Someone suggested that he might use his question box as a post office for Valentines. So now, Martin Burrows, Student Commentator, will become Cupid for a day, St. Valentine's Day.

The United States has but five cities with more than a million persons — New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, and Los Angeles.

Electric Tattoo Invented To 'Fingerprint' Dogs

Did you ever experience loss of your dog and then were unable to identify him because several dogs were similar to yours?

You no longer will have that difficulty, according to the National Bureau of Canine Identification. The bureau is working out a plan where every dog will be numbered. The number will be written on the dog's leg with an electric pen and recorded by the bureau.

The bureau will keep its records on small cards, as police files are kept. The card will contain the name of the owner, address, phone number, dog's name, breed, sex, location of the marking and the number itself.

The number used will be one of a series, no two alike, with the serials running from A to Z, with each veterinarian having an individual serial.

Other methods of identification are not foolproof, the bureau says. Nose-printing doesn't work efficiently because when a nose-printed dog is lost every dog of its description has to be nose-printed to find the lost one with any degree of certainty.

Code Message With Hair

Code messages were written with the curls of a woman's hairdresser by a barber at Hickam field, Honolulu, America's largest airbase in the Pacific.

M. L. ("Bill") Hix, the barber, devised the code. Its secret lies in the arrangement of the curls. He told army officers that he could send 200 words in a single hairdress.

Each letter of the alphabet has a curlicue all of its own. The message is written in a system of curls and waves turning left or right, up or down, and in various combinations.

He demonstrated to army officers how secret agents could deliver messages with the aid of a pretty woman's hair and the deft touch of a barber, by waving a message in the hair of Bunnie Paris, Hickam field bookkeeper.

To those who could read Hix's code, the curls of Miss Paris' hair plainly said:

"Blow up power plant."

Stewardesses on Streetcars

The dying trolley car is making an eleventh-hour effort to come back. Its newest effort to head off extinction appears in Atlantic City, where the management of an interurban line, taking a cue from the airlines, is installing hostesses. Two uniformed girls will ride the cars, to supply newspapers and magazines for passengers, help women on and off at stops and otherwise look after people's comfort.

The plan sounds fine, and it would probably be approved unanimously by trolley passengers, but will it succeed? Imagine a stewardess fighting her way through a densely packed crowd at 5:15 to hand a picture magazine to a homeward-bound citizen, then line-plunging to the exit to assist a housewife in alighting from the car. Not that the passengers wouldn't appreciate these little attentions to lighten the rigors of trolley-riding, but the stewardesses would have to be sisters of Superman in order to do the job.

Vicar Favors Cooks

"When a very young bride is standing before me at the altar steps I feel tempted to ask her 'Will you promise to cook the bacon slowly and see that it is not fried up to nothing? Canst thou make an appetizing stew fit for this man to eat?'" declared the Rev. P. B. Rebbeck, Vicar of Wolvenote, Oxford, England, in his parish magazine. He then concluded, "Before a girl is allowed to put up the banns she ought to have a certificate showing she has some elementary knowledge of cooking."

More than 99 per cent of the sulfur produced in the United States is obtained in six operations—one in Louisiana and five in Texas.

Busy Port Run By Coast Guard

N. Y. Harbor Operated Under Wartime Rule 'Just to Be Ready.'

NEW YORK. — Father Knickerbocker's harbor, the world's largest and busiest port, is being operated by the coast guard under wartime rules and regulations—"just to be ready."

Given control of all shipping under a presidential proclamation last June, the coast guard has worked night and day to gear its machinery to an emergency tempo.

In charge of this machine are Capt. Ralph W. Dempwolf, commander of the New York coast guard district, and his aid, Commander John S. Baylis, both veterans of the World War. As "captain of the port," Dempwolf is in complete charge of all shipping here.

One of the first steps taken under the emergency setup was to establish a training school at Ellis island and call for 300 recruits—men who will study the loading of munitions, anchorage problems, espionage and sabotage. More than 300 are already at work.

24-Hour Watch.
 Here are some of the things the coast guard is doing outside of its normal routine:

Armed coast guard vessels keep a 24-hour watch at the harbor's three entrances—the Narrows, Throgs Neck and Perth Amboy—and carefully examine each ship as it enters and leaves port.

Belligerent vessels, phantom-like in their coats of camouflage, gray or buff, are forced to fly secret code flags of identification before the patrol allows them to clear.

Anti-sabotage squads work quietly and constantly along the teeming waterfront. In this task coast guardsmen are joined by FBI agents, army and navy intelligence officers.

Coast guardsmen superintend the loading of all munitions—at Bayonne, N. J., Terminal and Gravesend bay, where ships are loaded at anchor from barges. More than 1,100 longshoremen have been required to get coast guard certificates to handle explosives.

All ships loaded with munitions are escorted by patrol vessels through the harbor. Eighteen vessels and several planes patrol the harbor's 770 miles of docks each day, watching for fires, oil pollution, ice and checking the movements of each ship.

Make Daily Reports.
 A report on the position of every ship in the harbor—there are more than 300 some days—is sent to Washington each day.

The coast guard also does these jobs:

Patrols La Guardia airport. Operates neutrality, weather and ice patrols in the Atlantic. Answers SOS calls.

Investigates each fire, grounding and collision.

Belligerent vessels are given special treatment. Met at the narrows, their radios are sealed until they leave port. Their armaments are inspected and photographed.

If a ship is judged to be carrying offensive guns, the navy takes charge and sets a time limit for her to stay in the harbor.

The office of Baylis and Stanley, his assistant, is forever busy. Telephones and radios pour in messages, cutter captains report for orders, and civilians seek permits with requests of every description, some of which seem strange even to the officers.

For example, Stanley recently was asked for permission to land 110 tons of Chinese firecrackers.

Twins Changed Little
 Wide differences in environment changed them but little, according to twin sisters separated by adoption in 1914 when they were five days old. After several unsuccessful attempts, Mrs. Lloyd E. Ensnout and Miss Agnes Walters were reunited recently at Seattle.

Country Child's Musings
City folks just sit and stare
And mumble to themselves,
Just sit and stare
At anything
Out anywhere.
And grumble to themselves.
I guess they have no sunny sky,
No bees to hum, no birds to fly,
No crowing cocks to wake the day,
No spreading mead with lambs at play.
No hidden brooks with sumac bright,
No painted trees with checkered light,
And so they sit and stare
At anything,
Out anywhere,
And grumble to themselves.

Ed—Who is really the boss in your house?
Lou—Well, of course, Dorothy assumes command of the children, the dog, the cat and the laundry, but I can say pretty much what I want to the goldfish.

Statistics show that women live longer than men. They want that last word.

We should class this as a whopper.

Clerk—Yes sir, that medicine sure is powerful. Best stuff we have for the liver. Makes ya peppy.

Customer—Well, can you give me any specific references, I mean people who have taken said medicine with good results?

Clerk—Well, there was an old man living next to us who took this liver medicine three years.

Customer—Well, did it help him?

Clerk—He died last week.

Customer—Oh, I see.

Clerk—And they had to beat his liver with a stick for three days after he died before they could kill it.

A candidate, in the course of a long speech, dramatically asked the audience:

"My friends, do you ever stop to think—"

And a weary voice from the audience interrupted:

"My friend, do you ever think to stop?"

Naturally we all are interested in our neighbor's affairs; but is it annoying that they should be so curious about ours?

Employer—Yes, I advertised for a good strong boy. Think you can fill the bill?

Applicant—Well, I just finished licking 19 other applicants who were waiting outside when I got there.

But why pick on anybody?

An editor was murdered in a western state a while ago and the murderer was sentenced to 99 years in prison, while a fellow who killed a lawyer got off with five years. Prospective murderers will please take notice. Pick on the legal profession rather than the editors.

Pop—What does your teacher say about your poor homework in arithmetic, son?

Son—She says she'd rather you wouldn't help me with it.

The person who said that a kind heart was more important than a beautiful face wasn't a woman.

Man's Prayer—Lord, suffer me to catch a fish, so large that even I, when talking of it afterwards, may have no need to lie.

Customer—Ten years ago I only had to pay ten cents a pound for these prunes.

Grocer—Not these prunes, mister. These are only five years old.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"
By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

No dark clouds had begun to mar the opening of the new year of 1916 in Kingston, and few there were, if any, who realized that in but a short period of time the youth of the city would be called to the colors in the World War draft.

Kingston's tax rate that year was $33.80, and on January 1, 1916, as Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., assumed office for his second term as head of the city government, he announced the appointment of John R. Tammany, David Burgevin, Ward B. Everett and Addison E. Dederick as members of the Board of Public Works. The board re-elected W. Scott Van Keuren to serve for another two years as superintendent of the board.

Among other appointments made by Mayor Canfield the first of that year were John T. Cummings as city clerk; William D. Brinnier as corporation counsel; Fred H. Doremus as city treasurer and Morris Block as city assessor.

The now defunct Ulster County Horse Owners' Protective Association also held the annual meeting that January and elected Joel Brink as president; Matthew T. DeWitt as vice president; Edward McSpirt as secretary, and Minard W. Myer as treasurer.

January that year also marked the resignation of Reuben Bernard as president of the Kingston National Bank, a position he had filled for 37 years. He was succeeded by Cornelius Hume, who had been with the bank for a number of years.

Kingston's Chamber of Commerce was also active in 1916 and at the annual meeting in January elected Robert E. Leighton general manager of the Universal Road Machinery Company as president, succeeding John B. Kearney.

James E. Canfield, an uncle of Mayor Canfield, was re-elected secretary of the organization for another year.

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIAN GREY

YESTERDAY: This is the third meeting between Roger Cosgrave, a young man of wealth, and Lovely Daye, girl of the New York tenements. Sweet along by an emotion he cannot master, Roger has forgotten his fiancée, Emily Perry, and has driven Lovely up to a cottage not far from his estate. And now they are there, Roger finds he suddenly can think of other things than Lovely. Of food, for example.

Chapter Eight Alone At Last

ROGER was speaking:
"Food, beautiful lady!"
There was warming a can of corned beef hash, canned peas, crackers from a package. Canned peaches, great golden disks. Small cookies and coffee.

Afterwards in the softly lighted living room Lovely found in Roger's arms and lips a fervent, beautifully tender passion.

They talked in little scraps.
"I'm foolish about you, darling," Roger murmured, his lips against the bright gold of her hair. "I've lost all sense of everything else."

Lovely smiled. Her fingers reached up to brush his face.

"It's such nice foolishness, though," she said softly.

"What are we going to do about it?" He was thinking of Emily. His diamond she was wearing. Their marriage scheduled in less than a month.

"Must we do anything?" Roger let it go at that. The path that led into the future was a suddenly confused thing where two days ago it had been plain and clear, with Emily walking it beside him.

He looked at his watch.

"It's another day, dear! Four! You've missed your beauty sleep. Though Heaven knows what you'd do with any more beauty! Better turn in now. Pick your own bedroom. He hesitated a moment, then: "You're not afraid of being here alone?"

Lovely looked a trace startled.

"Alone? Afraid? No, of course not. But," she hesitated, "is there all there is, Galahad? Isn't there any more?"

Roger swept her against his heart and held her there tightly.

"I'm no Galahad," he said kissing her fiercely. "It's you I'm thinking of. I've got to. I feel that way about you."

And Lovely left alone was a little startled by the turn of events.

Roger, driving down the hill toward his father's big house, was thoroughly shaken.

He tried to face the situation he discovered himself in and found it too startling for any calm solution.

He was engaged to marry Emily. The invitations for the wedding were all out. Emily had selected her attendants, he his ushers and best man. Their parents lived on nearby estates and had been friends for years. Emily was a fine sweet girl. Thought of ever hurting her wrung his heart.

Yet there was Lovely.

Lovely! Like a hot sweet flame in his veins. Like a thread of bright gold running through all the pattern of his thinking. Like hands clinging to his heart with never to be forgotten tenderness. Like a haunting refrain singing over and over again in his being.

Could he marry Emily, go through the ceremony before him with Lovely so imprinted on his heart?

He swung his car into place in the garage and the stars came up the side steps. Daylight was struggling through dawn mist.

A figure rose like a pale ghost from the shadows of the top step.

"Roger!"

"Emily!" She was like a wraith here in the strange half-light of dawn, still in her long sweeping chiffon party dress. "Emily what are you doing here?" Her hands were icy in his.

"Oh, Roger! Terrible let down in her voice. "Forgive me, dear! I had to do it! I knew something was wrong. I could feel it tonight. And then when you left I watched and saw your car turn toward the city instead of home! I felt as if something terrible was going to happen. I had to come here and wait!"

"Silly little baby!" Gathering her in his arms. "It's damp. You'll catch your death!"

"Oh, Roger, to have you back safe and the same!" Her voice trembled. She was all but crying with a sort of hurt joy. "I have been silly! Tell me, darling, I have?"

"You have, sweet. Very silly to spend one precious little minute of your time worrying about me." He was taking her into the house, leading her up the stairs. At the door of a guest room he stopped.

"Go in and get comfy and sleep a little thing." He kissed the lips she lifted to him with an innocent gesture. He could kiss her. It was like kissing a child. It left no imprint on his soul as Lovely's lips, flaming under his, had. They had burned to the very heart of his being. Their mark was seared unforgettably deep within him.

As Roger undressed he saw the collar of his shirt was lipstick marked. Lovely's, of course. Emily evidently hadn't noticed. Nor had she asked him where he had been.

Peace Again

MARCIA Cosgrave was not surprised to find Emily with them next morning. Emily had always been like one of their family.

"I put Emily to bed here last night," Roger said, as they sat at late breakfast. "No reason for her going home."

"I'm glad you did, darling." Marcia's brilliant smile included both young people. "I've always liked having Emily about."

"But Roger, my pet! How carefully you handle my reputation!" Emily laughed across at Roger. Here in the heart of Roger's home her sense of well being returned. All was right with her world. "You put me to bed!"

"All right! All right, if you're a stickler for details! I took you to the guest room door then."

"That does sound a little better, Roger, but nothing anyone could say would change your father's or my feeling about Emily." Marcia was rising. "I'll leave you two love birds now. Must go for a fitting for the most important dress I've ever had in my life—the one for your wedding, darlings!" She bent to kiss Emily as she passed.

A strange jagged little silence held Roger and Emily after she had gone.

"Her dress for our wedding! Oh, Roger!" Emily broke the silence, her voice lighted glamorously.

Roger lighted a cigaret and gave it to her. He became intensely concerned, then, lighting one for himself. He tried to smile when finally he turned to her.

"I suppose I'd better go now," Emily said finally. She knew her family would not be concerned about her. She often stayed with the Cosgraves. She looked up expecting Roger to object and have some plan for a pleasant day together. But he said:

"I'll take you, Emily."

It was only a short drive. Mrs. Perry insisted Roger stay for lunch. She laughed brightly as she watched him move restlessly about.

"Lucky your wedding's only three weeks off, Roger. You're nervous as a cat in a strange garret. I don't believe you could hold out any longer."

Mrs. Perry and her husband were pleased with Emily's choice. Every thing about the match seemed perfect from every point of view.

Roger was nervous and uneasy. Lovely's face kept coming between him and Emily. He scarcely touched his food. He was anxious to know what was going on in the cottage on Mt. Airy.

Mrs. Perry's amusement was of a particular happy kind as she watched him.

"Love is like that!" she said. But Emily was solemn as she said goodbye to Roger.

"You'll be here this evening?" she asked wistfully. "Marj's giving the party for us, you know. You're supposed to be there and with me!" She tried to laugh a little on the last but even Roger, preoccupied as he was, noticed what pitiful laughter it was.

"I won't fail you, Emily," he said.

Back To Love

AND Roger, driving up Mt. Airy Road toward the cottage, swore to himself that he meant what he had just said to Emily.

He would go to the cottage, get Lovely and take her back to her sister's. He would give her enough money to ease things for quite a while. And that would do that.

Then he was turning in the drive of the cottage. Stopping the car. Before he was out the door of the house swung open.

Lovely was framed there. Lovely! His heart seemed to wake and live once more. He was aware of only one emotion—wanting Lovely Daye.

The cottage was neat. Lovely had washed the dishes—they had used the night before and put everything in order.

"I don't know why I did." Her laughter was a rich thing, bubbling in her throat. "Things like that never interested me before."

"Perhaps," he had swept her to his heart and as looking down at her with fondness "it's because this was Granny Hale's cottage, my maternal grandmother's. She was like that. Neat. Orderly. She left this to me."

"I suppose people are like that sometimes," Lovely said thoughtfully. "I mean they live afterward in what they've been while they were here."

"Everyone is. You start something with your life and it goes on and on like the ever enlarging circles that follow dropping a pebble into water."

Lovely grinned ruefully.

"Well thought that. I mean especially about our mistakes. Which I make plenty of."

The last surprised Roger. He noticed something strange and different about her suddenly. Her body that seemed to have been fashioned for love, all luring curves and subtle suggestion, was taut and resisting even though her eyes smiled and her lips curved in the shape of kisses.

"Meaning, beautiful?" Roger suggested.

"You. You're another one of my mistakes."

He felt his heart start uncomfortably. There were little sparks of fire behind the strange laughter of her eyes. It was a new mood to him. Beautiful. Maddening. But puzzling.

"I don't understand," he said. She put his arms away.

Merchants' Names Placed on Panel By Townsendites

A business men's panel consisting of names of those who have joined the local Townsend Club as displayed at a meeting of local Townsendites last night at Mechanics' Hall with the suggestion that members of the club patronize the merchants listed.

The slogan of the local group would be, said Miss Mildred Niles, president of the club, "We'll patronize the merchants who patronize us."

In the main address of the evening Paul Chase of Syracuse, national representative for New York state, declared that taxes have been the downfall of every civilization, and the same, he said, may be true in the United States unless something similar to the Townsend plan is adopted.

One of the main misunderstandings of the Townsend plan, explained, is that it will give anything for nothing. This is not true, he declared, the object of the Townsend plan is to hire those over 60 to do a most important job, that of putting money into circulation.

About 8,000,000 people in the United States would be eligible, he said, and at least 4,000,000 of these would be put to work with a pay check. This would result in the need for additional workers to produce goods.

The Townsend plan would not mean money poured through a rat hole, the speaker added. It is to money collected all over the United States, placed in the federal treasury and paid out on a pro rata basis to those over 60 who would be willing to retire from gainful employment. This would mean jobs for youths and business for all, he said.

Mr. Chase complimented the work of the local group and urged all who are interested in seeing the plan made a law to quit "letting George do it."

Only Eight Face Types, Noted Artist Declares

What kind of a face have you? According to a new book, entitled "Faces" by Eddie Senz, famous Hollywood makeup artist, all human faces fall into eight basic types. There are, he says, four types of long faces and four types of short faces.

Few persons have faces which conform exactly to the ideal types, but nearly everybody can improve his or her face. With women the arrangement of hair and skillful makeup often can improve vastly the facial appeal. Men, although denied makeup, can strengthen their facial qualities by dressing the hair thoughtfully. Both sexes find a wide field for facial improvement in eyeglasses. With nearly a half of the adult population wearing spectacles, in recent years much attention has been given to the artistry of fitting spectacles to faces. By skillful shaping of the lenses frequently weak facial structures can be softened, desirable qualities emphasized. Nearly 100 illustrations in the book demonstrate the influence of coiffures, cosmetics, millinery and spectacles upon faces of the various types. This unusual book is published by the Better Vision Institute, New York city.

Vegetable Meat Liked

Made from garden plants and vegetables, a nutritious vegetable meat is reported to have become popular in Budapest, Hungary. It is sold in the form of powder, and by the addition of water, bread, salt and other things many kinds of ground "meat" dishes, including sausage, may be produced. The inventor claims that a satisfactory dinner for four can be produced for about 20 cents. It is reported that several large Swiss firms are interested in the new synthetic meat and the German government may establish a factory for its production.

Willkie-Knox Dispute Over Destroyers Causes Some to Say U. S. May Give Converted Ships

Jewish Hospital Secretary Visits City for Parley

Miss Rae Peyser, field secretary for the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, arrived in Kingston today to confer with Attorney Henry Klein, local representative of the national board of directors and hospital supporters.

Miss Peyser said that the fight against intolerance through a concrete manifestation of Lincoln's principle of charity to all, is demonstrated in the day-to-day work of the hospital she represents.

Oldest charitable institution in the United States for the free treatment of tuberculous poor, the National Jewish Hospital this year is celebrating the completion of four decades of non-sectarian service. Its doors have been open for 40 years to victims of the white plague from every state in the union.

Although almost entirely supported by Jews, it has raised no restrictions as to creed, the only qualifications required of an applicant being that he need treatment for tuberculosis and be unable to pay. The motto of the hospital is "None May Enter Who Can Pay—None Can Pay Who Enter."

"Especially notable are these accomplishments when it is considered that the hospital receives neither federal nor State aid," Miss Peyser pointed out. "For the democratic ideals of tolerance and charity to all, of which the National Jewish Hospital is a living symbol, are upheld by thousands of voluntary contributors who use this practical method to express their convictions," she said.

Among the most progressive of American tuberculosis institutions, the National Jewish Hospital has two departments for children, a preventorium for those predisposed to tuberculosis, and a separate building for children with active tuberculosis. It maintains a research department, which according to the editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, is to be credited with some of the "most fundamental discoveries made in relationship to the germ of tuberculosis and our methods of attack upon it."

There is also at the hospital a vocational therapy and rehabilitation department designed to train patients in useful trades and vocations which they can follow without detriment to their health when they leave the hospital.

Italian-American Club Dinner Is Held

The Italian-American Club of Ulster county held its second annual dinner last evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Above are officers and members of various committees in charge of the dinner and program. Seated left to right are Ray Mino, Anthony Sotile, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Matalto, Samuel Stern, speaker, and William A. Kelly, toastmaster. Standing are Frank Martocci, Jasper Matalto, Fred Costello, Bartolo Berinato, Charles J. Turck, president; Guido Napoletano, Charles Perry, Joseph Leotta, Walter Donnarumma, Anthony Gentile, Benedict Salerno, and Joseph Saccoman.

Girl Scout Leader Honored at Dinner

A dinner party in honor of Miss Eunice Prien, National Advisor of Girl Scouts of Region 2, was given last evening by Mrs. Parker K. Brinnier at her home on Pearl street. Those who attended the party were members of the Ulster County Council for Girl Scouts. Miss Prien has been in Kingston for three days conducting a conference at the Governor Clinton Hotel for all in the county interested in scouting. Seated left to right are Mrs. Virgil DeWitt and Miss Helen Hasbrouck of New Paltz; Mrs. Elva Bogart, Mrs. Parker K. Brinnier, and Miss Eunice Prien. Standing in the same order are Mrs. Martin DuBois of New Paltz; Mrs. A. DuBois Rose, Miss Eleanor Rose and Miss Frances DuBois of Ellenville; Mrs. Ashton Hart of High Falls; Mrs. Everett Coty of Napanoch and Miss Zella Folette.

Wheeler Cites Complaints

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee said today that "complaints of propaganda by the radio, by some of the newspapers, by many columnists and the motion picture industry have become so numerous that official notice must be taken of them." In a letter to Fred Webber, general manager of the Mutual Broadcasting Company, Wheeler asked for a copy of talks by radio commentators over the network during the past year. He said he previously had requested similar information from the National and Columbia Broadcasting Companies.

Hens Lay As She Sings
Mrs. M. Stanier, of Horndon on the Hill, England, thinks she has discovered how to make hens lay more eggs. Sheep's paunches made into a kind of mince meat help a lot, but that is not the real secret, she says. "Hens appreciate kindness and have to be kept lively," she explains. "I talk to them several times a day. If they seem quite I sing to wake them up. They lay well for me because they know I like them."

City's Sewage Project to Begin

survey was completed was the site of the old U. S. D. machine shops and round house, as it was decided it was best adapted for the purpose sought.

The public works board submitted the proposition of purchasing the site to the Common Council, and the aldermen unanimously authorized the purchase of the land at a cost not to exceed $5,000.

The intercepting sewer will be laid from the Wilbur section of the city along Abeel street to Dock street, to Ferry street East Strand to the disposal site.

Relic Goes, Ends Row

For 50 years the center of a dispute, the steel trial armored plate on the lawn of the Museum Buildings in Belfast, Northern Ireland, has been converted into scrap. Many regarded the rusty relic with two jagged holes as an eyesore while others championed its historical significance. During tests to decide the effectiveness of dreadnaughts the ten-ton piece of metal was partially pierced by conical shells. Presented to the city it was unveiled in 1889 by Lord Kelvin, Belfast inventor of the modern compass, and others. The word "alphabet" is derived from the Greek words "alpha" and "beta," corresponding to "a" and "b."

New Seaway Aids Farms

Russia's new seaway is not only giving White Russia an outlet to the Black Sea, but is helping the transport of farm products to the rest of the country. White Russia is now officially called Belo-Russia and Minsk, midway between Warsaw and Moscow on the railway, is its capital. About 800 miles of new roads have been built in this region in the last year and 6,000 miles of old roads repaired. Even more important is completion of the 126-mile canal linking the Dnieper and the western Bug.

Work Slackers Hit

Manufacturers meeting in Wellington, New Zealand, called on the government to stop the serious letdown in munitions production at Hammer Springs caused by the irregular attendance, for trivial reasons, of workers at their employment. The chief difficulty is with the women workers. The absences occur usually the day after pay day. In many cases key workers quit their jobs for a day, content to make up the lost pay by a shorter period of work at overtime rates.

shown in our picture. Such diagrams are given in all popular music.

The vertical lines are the five strings, the cross lines are the frets or metal bars on your guitar fingerboard. Just press the fingers of your left hand on the strings where the dots indicate.

Then, with your right hand, pluck the same strings over the sound hole, including strings marked "O." Accompanying the tune, on the first beat play the first string of the chord alone, on the other beats play the other strings together.

A little practice and you'll be called the old maestro!

Our 32-page instruction book steps. Explains technique, elements of music. Gives table of chords, seven popular tunes.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"BEHIND GOD'S BACK," by Negley Farson

Negley Farson, who is one of those men who have foreknowledge of things to come, or seem to have, got the idea that war in Europe might bring Africa into prominence about a year before the war actually began. So he and his wife, whose name is Eve, took ship to Africa, and began a nine-month exploration which must have been divided about 90-10 between notetaking and travel. It is not possible that any man could keep such a profusion of color and detail in his mind, and making the notes from which it has been produced must have strewn his tortuous African path with pencil stubs.

For this is a great book, and no mistake. It is not an adventure story, but an effort to project into the Anglo-Saxon mind those facts of African life and background which will explain the importance of the continent in this day, and at the same time picture the people and the places visited by the Farsons. The author went about his job simply; he chose a route which would, he thought, give him his material, and then he described everything he saw, heard, did and felt. The method succeeds.

The Farsons began in South West Africa, the first German colony and now a South African protectorate. He learned some things about German colonial administration of former years which convinced him that the Nazis have no monopoly on harshness—indeed, the first governor of South West Africa was Marshal Goering's father. He visited "closed" Ovamboland, hunted in Portuguese territory, talked with important men in Capetown, and trekked with unimportant Boers farther north.

Then he went north along the east coast to Dar es Salaam, where he bought a car and drove by a remarkably indirect route across the continent to the French Cameroons and the Gulf of Guinea. He met everything from Seventh Day Adventist missionaries to gorillas on this meandering journey, and learned enormously from each. What is more important to a reader, he reproduces faithfully the scene and the overtones of the scene.

MODES of the MOMENT

Oriental touches will be used with discretion this spring as in this young evening frock, modeled by Movie Actress Joan Leslie. The bengaline print of the bodice is Oriental in pattern and coloring, while the skirt is regulation bouffant in pale yellow net.

BOLERO-EFFECT DRESS FOR TOTS

Marian Martin PATTERN 9654

Of course you love to dress-up your little girl in pretty clothes! It's double the fun when you make every stitch yourself, and Pattern 9654 by Marian Martin is gay inspiration. The adorable frock has a bolero-effect, with the seams of its side bodice sections in delightful easy-to-make scallops. Make wing-like cap sleeves or neat little puffs. The whole frock looks lovely in flower-splashed print, with rick-rack or lace edging. You might prefer having the sleeves, each side-front and the back bodice in contrast, perhaps with gay lacings down the front. Panties are included in this charming pattern that's so simple.

Pattern 9654 may be ordered only in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, dress with contrast, requires 1 1/4 yards 35 inch fabric and 5/8 yard contrast; other frock, 1 1/4 yards 35 inch fabric and 2 1/4 yards lace edging.

Surgeons Bar Women

Women were barred as district surgeons by the Federal Council of the Medical Association of South Africa at its Johannesburg meeting. Women surgeons expected to be given these official posts because so many surgeons have been called into military service. The opposition pointed out that district surgeons have to deal with natives and that difficulties would arise in certain cases.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

GREAT-AUNT, TAKEN IN AS MEMBER OF FAMILY, IS PROBLEM BECAUSE SHE EXPOUNDS DECIDED VIEWS TO GUESTS

Woman, the Freedom of Whose Home Has Been Taken Away, Appeals to Emily Post for Suggestions.

How to awaken tactful awareness of the feelings of others, in the sensibilities of those who are utterly lacking in perception, is just about the most impossible direction to give. I think, however, it could be the recognized privilege of each member of a family to be frank with every other member. Complete family accord is impossible otherwise. The case of "Great-Aunt Lucy" is no exception. This is described in the following letter about her from a reader:

"She is a dear and we truly love her, but she has decided views on politics, religion, drinking, smoking, and in fact on almost all subjects, and the trouble is she has no hesitation in airing her views before everyone who will listen. Our friends are really wonderful, we think, in that no matter what she chooses to say, they never fail to show her courteous respect."

"A year ago, when we asked my husband's Great-Aunt Lucy to make her home with us, we did it not only because it was the right thing for us to do but because we wanted to. But we are at our wit's ends to know how to be fair to Aunt Lucy and at the same time give us back at least some of the independent freedom we used to enjoy in our home."

"We have provided a combination bedroom and living room, and given her the guest bath all to herself. Her room is as comfortable as furnishing can make it. She has a sofa with reading lamp and her radio at hand. And we feel that when our friends come in, she should go to her own rooms, at least after a little while. Furthermore, I am beginning to rebel about never being able to give a dinner without having to include her. We'd like to have our friends to ourselves on such special occasions. But how can I broach this idea to her? There are lots of times when two or three friends come in for dinner and it would be all right if only she wouldn't hold the floor as though it were a lecture platform or she were taking part in a debate. Any advice you can give will be gratefully received."

How to answer this I scarcely know—except to go back to the frankness essential to family life. About her talking, you might say with lightness and obvious affection, yet frankly teasing, "Now darling, don't you talk about politics tonight. The Browns don't feel as we do." Older people don't mind teasing from young people they love. Even make a little fun of how she rode over the Green's feelings last time. On the other hand, to ask her to go to her rooms if such an arrangement was not decided upon before she came to live with you would be an impossible thing for you to suggest, I think. Perhaps if you began inviting a few too many people to seat comfortably at your table, she might herself prefer the quiet of supper in her room, or possibly—but about this I don't know—you might under the circumstances be able to venture the suggestion.

(Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

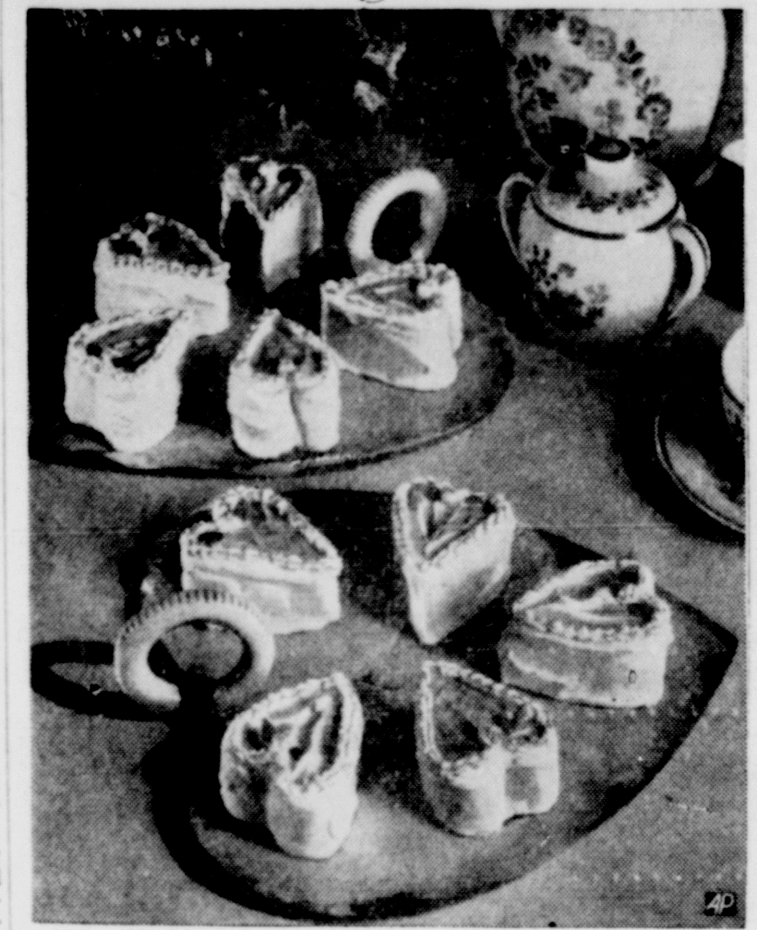

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Do You Know Your A B C's in Manners?" Be sure to send a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Good Valentine Parties Are Strong in Hearts

Valentine cup cakes

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE AP Feature Service Writer

Hitch your plans to a heart and you can't go wrong on that party planned for Valentine's Day.

Children fairly love the frilly accompaniments of a true Valentine party, and grown-ups have a way of falling into the spirit of any occasion which reflects the spirit of the day.

Informal entertainment is usually best, but don't let informality deter you from fussing up a bit at the serving table and in the preparation of refreshments.

When the guests are young serve simple foods, but doll them up. Examples for supper or luncheon: Creamed chicken or fish in heart bread cases, garnished with tiny cooked heart hearts. Pass graham bread heart sandwiches and, for dessert, jellied raspberry, strawberry or cherry hearts or sugar cookie hearts sprinkled with tiny red candies.

If only refreshments are served your youngsters guests, make up sandwiches in assorted flavors and put them in a large red cardboard heart or basket. Tie with fluffy bow and fasten red hearts on the ends. Red and white brick ice cream and white cake conclude this menu.

Since grownups usually go in for heavier fare, Ham Mousse will make a great hit for luncheon or supper. Soak 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin 5 minutes in 1/2 cup cold water. Add to 1 cup boiling water and stir well, mix in 1/4 cup granulated sugar and 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Chill until slightly firm, then lightly fold in 2 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 2/3 cup whipped cream, 2 cups chopped cooked ham, 1/4 cup diced celery and 2 tablespoons each of chopped parsley, pimientos and, choose, green peppers. Pour one large mold or individual molds. Unmold on cress or bed lettuce. Serves eight. Hot buttered asparagus on hearts, spiced pears or melon rind, cheese heart or hot roots and raspberry round out this first course. Dessert consider individual tarts, strawberry shortcake, angel food heart masked whipped cream or clove si with heart cakes.

Here is another lunch menu: Chicken or tuna quettes (heart shaped) creamed peas, spiced beet jellied tomato salad (in shapes of course) heart or melba toast and deep raspberry pudding topped pastry hearts.

Baked smoked ham is one of the most popular meats the year 'round both for family meals and for company luncheons and dinners. First of all, it is delicious in flavor and lends something of its own appetizing flavor to the foods served with it. Then it is easy to prepare and convenient to serve.

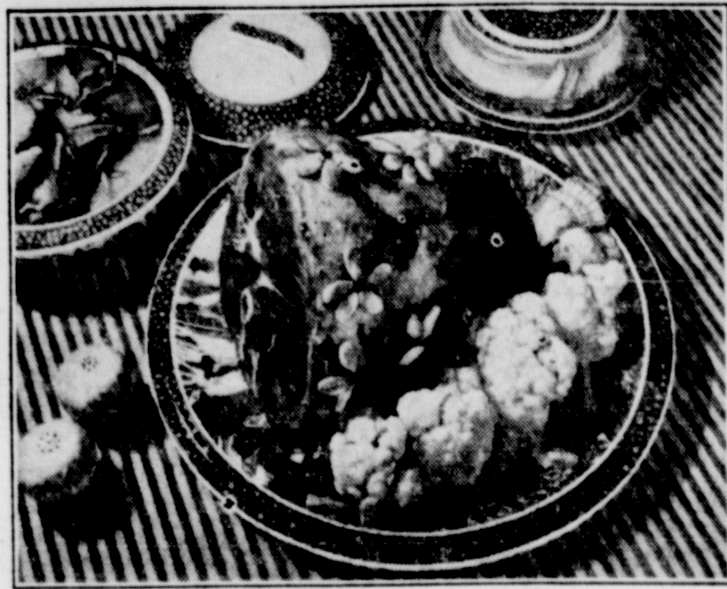

All the good qualities of a whole baked ham are found in the half ham cut, which is preferable for some occasions, because of its smaller size. Like the whole ham, it can be served very attractively with the surface glazed and an arrangement of fruit, nuts or spices to give it a festive appearance.

Remove the cushion section, turn it on the cut side, as shown in the illustration, and make slices beginning at the large end. For further servings from the remaining section, separate it from the shank by cutting through the joint; remove the bone, turn and slice.

A half ham provides a good supply of delicious meat, for there is

Fine Cut Served in Gala Style

Serve baked ham in festive style for your holiday dinner. It is given a very special decoration, here pictured, by groups of "flowers" with petals of blanched almonds and stems of whole cloves. Cauliflower flowerets accompany the ham. Sweet potatoes, glazed by brown sugar syrup with orange peel, are served with it.

very little waste in this cut. It is easy to carve. The slices, cut against the grain of the meat, should be thin and even.

The flavor of baked ham and mustard is a favorite combination. By way of variety, use a hot mustard sauce with the ham.

Baked Half Ham

Place half ham with fat side up on a rack in an uncovered pan. Make a small incision and insert the meat thermometer so that the bulb is in the thickest part of the ham. Place in a slow oven (300 degrees) and roast until the thermometer registers 170 degrees, allowing about 30 minutes per pound. Many hams now on the market require a shorter cooking time. Directions which accompany these should be followed so that the ham is not overcooked.

About forty-five minutes before the ham is done, take it from the

Streamlined Army Relies on Infantry

Foot Soldiers Still Are Indispensable in War.

WASHINGTON.—The infantry still is "queen of the army" so far as the high command is concerned. And despite the emphasis on aviation and mechanization in modern war training, the infantry is not being neglected in modernization plans.

Tanks may break through the enemy line, disrupt supplies and communications and "throw the supporting force into a panic. Planes may carry a bombardment far beyond points where the artillery formerly could reach. But the infantry still is the arm which moves into the breach, seizes the territory and holds it until able to advance or forced to retreat, according to army tacticians.

Despite swift advances in other service branches, only two major developments have taken place in the infantry. One is to get it more quickly into the breach at the front; the second to arm it more heavily so it can strike more powerful blows and repel counter-attacks.

Speed has been given by streamlining the motorization of the infantry. Strength has been given by increasing the number of weapons. At its present contemplated potential the stream-lined division will have a war strength of 13,567 of which 8,910 will be infantrymen—the rest artillery and other incidental troops.

Each stream-lined division will have 144 heavy .30-caliber machine guns, 108 light machine guns, 36 .50-caliber machine guns, 162 automatic rifles, 5,076 infantry rifles—the new Garand—12 155-mm. howitzers, 36 37-mm. anti-tank guns, 81 light mortars, 36 81-mm. mortars and eight 75-mm. anti-tank guns. This is a vast increase of firepower over the older stream-lined division.

New Type Bomb to Blast

Submarines Gets a Test

LOS ANGELES.—A new type of bomb designed to blast submarines was demonstrated by Russell Hart, Los Angeles inventor.

It is fashioned from an alloy which Hart said is highly explosive in water. To demonstrate, he placed a bit weighing a tenth of an ounce through a small iron pipe into a can of water. There was an explosion. Hart said the explosion equalled that of two ounces of black powder. The water, he said, liberated hydrogen in the alloy and caused the explosion.

"A 100-pound bomb of this material," Hart asserted, "would be equal to a 300-pound depth bomb of the type now used by Great Britain."

The cost would be about 25 cents a pound instead of the present $1, Hart said.

Hart related that he discovered possibilities of the alloy only by accident in removing bark from trees on a farm near Portland, Ore., in 1938. He said a piece of the alloy used in the bark remover slipped and plunged into a water well, causing an explosion.

Voltaire Listed Hazards

In Invasion of England

DETROIT.—Three reasons why Adolf Hitler—or any European belligerent—should hesitate before attempting an invasion of Great Britain have been discovered in an unpublished letter of the Eighteenth century French writer Voltaire.

Written in 1759 when a force was being organized in France for a coastal invasion of the island.

Of the projected invasion, Voltaire wrote, "Three miracles are necessary so that it should succeed. The first is that a landing force may be allowed to get ashore. The second one is that they should remain in England any time at all without being exterminated. The third one is that they should get back."

The population of the United States and all its territories and possessions is 150,621,231.

Scandinavian Music Heard at Music Club

A program on the music and musicians of the Scandinavian countries was presented Wednesday evening at the March meeting of the Musical Society. The program was given at the home of Mrs. Harry P. Dodge on Green street and was in charge of Mrs. Florence W. Cumberley and Mrs. Henry F. Dunbar.

"Scandinavian Personalities" with particular reference to the outstanding composers of Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark was given by Mrs. Wonderly in preface to the musical portion of the program.

Appearing on the program were Mrs. Bertrand Bishop, who played the piano, "Romance" by Sibelius; Mrs. Edward Muller, Jr., who sang "Ich Liebe Dich" by Grieg and "Seventeen" a Swedish folk song; Mrs. Cumberley, who played three violin solos, "Adagio" from the "Suite in A Minor" by Sinding; "Humoresque" by Tor Aulin and "Cradle Song" by Aulin; and Mrs. Dunbar who sang "I Heard the Gull" and "The Mother Sings" both by Sinding.

A vocal ensemble closed the program with the singing of "The Bells of Berghall Church" and "But My Bird Is Long in Homing," both by Sibelius. Members of the vocal ensemble were Miss Helen Turner, Mrs. LeRoy Wood, Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, Mrs. John L. MacKinnon, Mrs. Warren Ingalsbe and Miss Caroline Port.

Accompanists during the evening were Miss Alberta Davis for Mrs. Muller, Mrs. Henry Millonig, Jr., for Mrs. Cumberley, Mrs. LeRoy Vogt for Mrs. Dunbar and Mrs. Lester Decker for the ensemble.

During the business meeting it was announced that the March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham instead of at the home of Mrs. Maurice W. Venno as announced on the year's program.

Members of the nominating committee to present a slate of officers for the ensuing year will be Miss Catherine McCommons, Mrs. Arthur Ellison and Mrs. Henry Millonig, Jr.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. LeRoy Wood, Miss Caroline Port and Mrs. Warren Ingalsbe.

Aspegren-Miller
Highland, Feb. 11—The marriage of Miss Emelie Miller of Coscob, Conn., formerly of Highland, and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, to Axel Aspegren, also of Coscob, was performed Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Decker in New Paltz. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Walter Miller, was gowned in white net trimmed with Valenciennes lace, with a tulle cap and face veil. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and roses. Her sister, Miss Eudora Miller, Floral Park, L. I., was her only attendant. Her blue gown was similar to that of the bride with matching veil. She carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. John O'Keefe of Floral Park was best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gerret Wullschlegel, pastor of the Reformed Church, New Paltz. Members of the immediate family were present. The wedding march was played by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Philip Schantz, who accompanied for the soloist, Miss Rose Symes. Miss Symes was a cousin and a member of the Highland High School faculty. A reception followed. Later the couple left on a wedding trip. They will be at home in Coscob later, temporarily. The bride graduated from Highland High School and Hempstead Business School, Hempstead, L. I. Mr. Aspegren is a marine engineer.

Class to Visit Family
The Willing Workers Class of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Harry Emnick on Elmendorf street. It was decided that the class members would visit the family the class is sponsoring, on Thursday. Contributions of food and clothing are to be left with Mrs. Ralph Emerson and Mrs. Vernon Miller. During the coming month the members are planning to give a series of parties in their homes, the proceeds to be given to the treasury at the March meeting. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Henry Whitney and Mrs. Harry Leifer.

Hostess at Breakfast Bridge
Mrs. James C. Hungerford entertained at a breakfast bridge on Wednesday at her home, 34 Fair street, in honor of Mrs. William Gildersleeve of Marion, Ohio. Mrs. Gildersleeve is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Whitney, of Washington avenue. Guests present were Mrs. Eugene Chilson, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Harry Coleman and Mrs. George Bowling. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Chilson and Mrs. Gildersleeve.

Atharhacton Presents Scenes
Atharhacton Club members were shown several scenes from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Moliere at the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cornelius S. Treadwell on Main street. The scenes were led by Mrs. Treadwell and Miss Lillian Nelson. Next week the club will conclude its study of the French dramatists with a paper on Racine at the home of Mrs. Newton Fessenden.

Women Can Look Younger With Few Make-Up Tricks
No woman ever is mistaken for her daughter—not really. But a lot of women, simply because they don't keep up, are in danger of being mistaken for daughter's grandmother.

The smart thinking woman wastes little time regretting maturity, of course, and worries not too much about inevitable signs of increasing age.

On the other hand, she does not get the notion that her appearance isn't important. She deliberately employs a few tricks to make herself look five years younger than she actually is.

For instance, she combs her hair at the temples up and away from her face. She knows that upward-looking lines in this area counteract the downward sloping ones at the corners of her eyes. Hair up and away from the face is more youthful than straight-hanging locks.

She watches her color schemes carefully, choosing shades which give her complexion a glowing look. She does not wear black—unrelieved by touches of white or a vivid color.

If she uses slang, it's up to date—not a relic of her own calico years. If she can't keep her slang for date, she just gives up slang for the most part, and substitutes a real vocabulary in its place.

For purposes of conversation, if for no other reason, she knows what interests much younger people at the moment—what dance she like, even though she can't do it herself; who is the currently favorite orchestra leader; which young movie stars are now sharing the spotlight with some of her own old favorites.

Expert Says Good Vision
Vital to Child Welfare
Educators in the United States are paying increasing attention to the visual equipment of children, for studies have demonstrated repeatedly that visual defects not only retard the acquisition of knowledge, but they may breed undesirable social qualities, according to M. J. Julian, president of the Better Vision institute.

"Extensive studies have shown that two important factors are involved in defective vision: (1) the physical and (2) the mental. A child who cannot see well cannot read and carry on his tasks easily at school. Correcting such defects naturally facilitates education of children. However," says Mr. Julian, "the eyes have an important effect upon the nervous system and the mental states of the child. Headaches and nervous irritability are caused by defective eyes. Frequently undesirable social habits, including juvenile delinquency, can be traced to uncorrected visual defects. Poor eyes definitely tend to make 'difficult children' out of some youngsters. Several authorities go so far as to say that failure to correct visual defects in children is an important factor in truancy. One calls attention to the fact that a substantial part of the inmates of reform schools have defective vision."

Stamp Valued at $50,000
Uncovered in New York
A tiny, black-and-magenta bit of paper valued at $50,000 changed hands recently after an 84-year history rivaled by only the most precious of diamonds.

It was the world's most valuable stamp—the only known one-cent British Guiana cover of 1856 in existence.

Macy's department store in New York city purchased it for an unnamed client at an undisclosed price from Mrs. Ann Hind Scale of Utica, N. Y.

Thus the little sticker sought by leading collectors the world over entered a new chapter of romantic peregrinations that might be envied by the Hope or Jonker diamonds.

Chronologically, the saga of the stamp leads through several unidentified owners before its discovery in 1873 as something out of the ordinary.

That year L. Vernon Vaughan of Demarara, British Guiana, found it while looking over some old family papers. He sold it to a collector for six shillings.

It found its way into the collection of Count Philippe la Renotiere von Ferrary. It remained there for 44 years—the count shrugging off incredible offers for it. He never sold a stamp.

In 1917, however, Count Ferrary died and willed his collection—valued as high as $25,000,000—to the postal museum in Berlin. At the close of the first Great war, the French government announced the collection would be sold for the reparations account.

Three years later the auction was held. The bidding was spirited for the world's rarest stamp, with Arthur Hind (late husband of Mrs. Scale) competing with a wealthy Alsatian manufacturer.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Further downward inclinations were exhibited by leading stocks in today's market.

A faint show of resistance was put up at the start, then trends wavered and, at the worst, losses ranged from fractions to 2 or more points. There were a few wider declines. Dealings picked up for a while but the pace soon slowed. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 650,000 shares. Mild recoveries appeared here and there near the final hour.

Brokerage reasons for the resumption of the decline after the Wednesday holiday varied. Most, however, blamed nervousness on the cloudier outlook in the Balkans and a revival of fears an upset in the Far East might be in the offing. Labor worries also were seen as a factor. Business hopes, at the same time, were thought to have cushioned the reaction.

Bonds and commodities were irregularly lower.

Among depressed stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Anacosta, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Texas Corp., Allied Chemical, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville. J. I. Case dropped about 5 on a few transactions.

Ground losers in the curb included Gulf Oil, Great Northern Paper, American Cyanamid, B. Pantepec and Phoenix Securities.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Shop to Reopen

The Smart Shop, at 304 Wall street, will reopen for business Friday, with quarters greatly improved and double the space it formerly occupied. There are greatly increased facilities for carrying for customers, including four fitting rooms. New fixtures and cases have been installed and new linoleum brightens the floor. Since the Smart Shop opened four years ago it has been found necessary to treble the floor space. The Shop now claims the largest corset department in Ulster county, with all leading brands carried. Gloves also are a specialty.

The Glee Club will give a broadcast over Station WEAF. The club has a membership of 78, of which number 36 will be taken on the week-end tour.

Women Donate Vests

More than 3,000 sheepskin vests have been given Australians on active service overseas by the Countrywomen's Association of New South Wales, it is reported in Sydney. More than 18,000 sheepskins are on hand, with another 10,000 promised. The women persuaded flock owners to give them the skins. Pelts were tanned free of charge and cut to pattern by a women's committee of voluntary workers, and made up by girl employees of a Sydney furrier firm, who donated one day a week for the work without charge.

Locusts Cause Damage

Locusts are invading South Africa and causing heavy damage to sugar cane and other crops, according to a Pretoria report. Government men counted 27 flying swarms in Natal and Zululand and other large swarms are known to be on the way.

Two Men Are Hurt In Catskill Crash

Grant D. Morse, Irving Lomstein in Hospital

Grant D. Morse, 43 superintendent of schools in Saugerties, and Irving Lomstein, 33, of Ellenville, were injured when the auto operated by Morse and the light delivery truck driven by Lomstein, crashed into a parked trailer and tractor shortly after 6 o'clock Tuesday night on the 9-W highway, between the Deyo and Miller gas stations near Catskill.

Mr. Morse suffered a fractured right knee cap, while Lomstein suffered compound fractures of both arms, one of which may have to be amputated, as well as suffering severe lacerations of the neck, abrasions of the legs and contusions of the chest.

Both were removed to the Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill.

According to a report filed with State Trooper Closson and Under Sheriff Clarence Palmer, who investigated, Bruno Olszowy of Passaic, N. J., driving southward a tractor-trailer belonging to the Onondaga Freight Co. of Syracuse had stopped along the highway as the result of tire trouble during the day, and unhooking the tractor, had returned to Albany to have repairs made.

Returning shortly after 6 p. m., and after making a stop at Charlie's station on the 9-W, Olszowy said he was near the trailer when a light delivery panel truck, driven by Lomstein, and filled with car batteries, pulled out and passed the tractor and crashed into the trailer just ahead.

While he was extricating the driver from this collision, a car operated by Mr. Morse came along and crashed into the tractor.

Yugoslav Premier To Meet Hitler

British forces in the Libyan desert campaign in North Africa.

There was no mention of Germany in the announcements of the Mussolini-Franco conversations, but there were plenty of reports indicating that Axis partner might be about to give a new twist to the war in the Balkans.

Nearly 60,000 German soldiers were estimated to be concentrated in Rumania, and there were persistent reports that others disguised as civilians had filtered into little Bulgaria next door—possibly in preparation for a push toward the Mediterranean through Greece and Turkey.

There were reports from well-informed Balkan quarters that Turkish diplomatic circles had initiated a campaign for a united Balkan defense front made up of Bulgaria, Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey, but the campaign admittedly was begun with little hope of success.

British African troops were reported pushing forward on three fronts in Italian Eritrea toward the port of Massaua, but progress apparently was slow at Cheren, a strongly fortified mountain town in the central sector, although the British said they occupied positions controlling an important highway junction at Elgena, which leads to both Massaua and Cheren.

The Italian forces in Albania, the Greeks reported, were digging heavy defenses after calling off a series of costly counter-attacks which were said to have been broken by the Greeks. Bitter fighting was reported in the Devol and Skumbi river valleys.

Dispatches from Athens said Greek troops driving north along the Adriatic sea coast toward Valona had advanced their lines about three miles.

Bayonet-thrusting Greeks were said to have dislodged the Italians from strongly fortified heights near the seashore after heavy losses had been inflicted among the Fascists by artillery fire.

Sailfish Resembles

Native Boat in Water

And old-time English explorer, Sir Stamford Raffles, made this note about an event during a voyage more than a century ago:

"We have made an amusing discovery. A sailing fish, about 10 or 12 feet long, hoists a mainsail and often sails in the manner of a native boat. It moves with considerable swiftness."

Sir Stamford was writing about fish which are much better known today than in his time. They are called "sailfish," and are relatives of swordfish.

A sailfish has a large fin which rises above its back to a height of about two feet. This fin is low in front, just behind the head, but goes up at a steep slant to full height. The fin has a length of from four to six feet along the back.

The statement about the sail being "hoisted" is quite true. While the fish swims under water, the fin is folded and lowered until it fits snugly enough in a groove in the back.

When the sailfish rises to the surface, the fin goes up. There is little doubt that winds which catch the "sail" are of some help in adding to the fish's speed.

A close relative of the sailfish is known as the "marlin." It does not have such a big fin above its back, but it has the same type of pointed snout as a sailfish.

The snout of a marlin has been compared to a spear. It is rounded, not flat like the sword of a true swordfish, or "brodbill."

A marlin is usually blue, black or dark brown above, but the lower parts are yellow or silvery. It is a fast swimmer, and may cut the water at a speed of from 40 to 60 miles an hour.

The average weight of a freight locomotive is 144 tons; of a passenger locomotive, 130 tons.

further until he could present to the court certain information as to the family and business background of his client. Sentence was deferred till Monday next.

Elitzer is charged with hotel thefts, among them certain thefts at the Hotel Nevele near Ellenville.

In the action against Austin MacDonald his attorney, John W. DeWitt, noted that last spring Judge Conway represented the district attorney's office in the case. He moved the action to Supreme Court. District Attorney Haver suggested that a certificate of disqualification be filed and that another county judge be asked to preside, or that the case be moved over the term. Judge Conway directed that the latter action be taken.

David Schoentag was assigned as counsel for William Davis, charged with thefts of money and jewelry from Mrs. Ethel Forbes of Walker Valley.

There being no cases ready for trial court was adjourned to Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Interested observers at the brief session of court this morning were 35 pupils from the Walkkill Central School, members of the class in social studies. They were accompanied by their teacher, Miss Florence Morrissey.

Giants to Open Training Season Friday at Miami

Pitchers and Catchers Will Report for Opening of Spring Drills; 1st Game Feb. 28

With the 1941 baseball training season getting under way Friday at Miami, Fla., when Bill Terry and a number of the New York Giants' pitchers and catchers assembled some thought is being devoted to the coming "Grapefruit League." The Brooklyn Dodgers come into camp the following day in Havana.

Other National League training bases are as follows: Reds, Tampa, Fla., March 1; St. Louis Cardinals in St. Petersburg, Fla., February 28; Pirates, San Bernardino, Calif., February 24; Cubs, Catalina Island, Calif., February 26; Bees, San Antonio, Tex., March 1; and the Phillies at Miami Beach, March 8.

Terry, along with Carl Hubbell, Bill Lohrman, Hal Schumacher, Ace Adams, Bob Bowman, Jack Brewer, Walt Brown, Bob Carpenter, Clyde Castleman, Paul Dean, Tom Gorman, Harry Gumbert, Bump Hadley, Jim Linn, Cliff Melton, Johnny Wittig and Cliff Melton, Blaine, Harry Danning, Leo "Gabby" Hartnett and Ken O'Dea. Other players will report a week later to Manager Terry.

A few of the regular players, infielders and outfielders, have received permission to attend the preliminary workouts. Bill Jurges, ailing shortstop who was injured last year and Mel Ott, veteran outfielder, will be among those in camp Friday.

As far as the "Grapefruit League" is concerned the Giants and Dodgers will meet in Havana February 28, March 1 and 2. Beginning with Friday, March 7, all clubs in National League will be busy with exhibition games in the southland and on the western coast.

Following is the schedule for the first week-end of exhibition tilts: Friday, March 7, Reds and Red Sox at Tampa; Dodgers and Indians at Havana; Cards and

Corporal Is Favorite

Philadelphia, Feb. 13 (AP)—A 21-year-old Canadian lance corporal, who expects to sail this summer with his artillery regiment for duty in the battle of Britain, rules today as North American figure skating king. In one of the most dramatic flashes in the history of the competition, Ralph McCreath cut down the commanding lead of the United States title holder, Eugene Turner, and carried off the North American crown last night by the bare margin of eight-tenths of a point.

Miss Hobush Hits New Loop Record

Barbizon Kegler Rolls 570 Against Treadeasy

Tillie Hobush set up a new Colonial Women's League bowling record Wednesday night by scoring a sensational 570 series for the Barbizon keglers. Her teammates proceeded to take two games from Treadeasy.

Miss Hobush hit the pins for games of 181, 206 and 183 for the new league record. Her total was the highest for three games hit by any woman in the city this season. Rita Markle followed Miss Hobush with a series of 542.

HIGHLAND

Highland P. T. A.

Highland, Feb. 13—The seven speakers on the vocational program of the Highland Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening, brought both a glimpse of what had been accomplished by the organization and what the youth of today have to consider in choosing their vocations. Mrs. James R. Swift as a past president told of the P. T. A. athletic field. It became a reality she said, because of the work of local interested people. The land was there and with J. D. Lester and J. Wells Weaver as heads, the plan came to life.

The P. T. A. put in the sum of $2,500 and at one time the officers became responsible on a note for half that amount. When the land was drained and stumps and rocks removed, help came through the trustees and the land was graded and given a hard surface for use. There are now about seven acres in the playground.

Mrs. Swift was introduced by Miss Lois Welker, who then turned the program over to James Hilderbrand, French and Latin instructor. He called upon Miss Marie Van Wormer. She gave advice to the students who had the teaching profession in view. Outlines of the State College entrances and Normal school requirements were given.

Dentistry as a life work was discussed by Dr. Victor Salvatore who stated that he would make no other choice had he the opportunity to do so. He believed that to be a success, a dentist had to keep up with all the modern methods or in other words keep in step with progress.

Elmer Fisher presented the past methods of raising fruit to the present means. His advice was if anyone loved to dig, to grow fruits a little better than anyone else, to watch things grow then he should be a farmer.

Andrew W. Lent, speaking for the lawyers gave the requirements of college and law school as against the past practice of entering a law office to read law. He advised that the student must have a love for it and a loyalty to law itself.

Dr. Henry Moeller spoke for the medical profession and its requirements of chemistry, French, German, Latin and Greek as foundations with honesty and courage and a love of fellow men, which is all included in the ten years of preparation.

Miss Wilhelmina Wezenaar of Kingston, a former graduate of Highland High School and Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, spoke for the nursing profession and the wideness of the field. The requirements grow more strict, but openings are now in the large field of public health nursing, school, army, navy office industries, home.

She gave personality as a chief requisite for success. At the opening Miss June Schantz sang, "De-lia" accompanied by Mrs. Harry Thorne.

An invitation was received from Evelyn B. Lynker asking the local group to attend a County Founder's Day party at school No. 5 in Kingston, at 8 o'clock on February 18.

Miss Marian Wightman, head of the Domestic Science and serving of hot lunches in the school stated that 115 children were being fed daily. She gave receipts during the month as: $7.06 from P. T. A. sale of food tickets, $3.74, $6.88, and $4.14, $10, P. T. A. She had paid out $25 and with the balance of $6.82 there was an unpaid balance of $9.30. It was voted to take that amount from the treasury.

Of surplus commodities received she had flour, corn meal, whole wheat cereal, eggs, butter, canned peaches, raisins, evaporated milk. More tickets are being sold but they did not cover the cost of fresh vegetables. The price of a lunch is five cents. For this purpose the P. T. A. plans to hold a card party late this month or early in March. Mrs. Allan Hasbrouck and Mrs. Frank Simpson were the two members who will attend the meeting of the trustees Friday evening.

The resignation of the president, Mrs. Arthur Burrell had been presented to the executive meeting and in turn was accepted at the meeting. This was occasioned by the moving of the Burrell family to Kinderhook. Mrs. Edson Dimsey as first vice president succeeds to the office.

Highland, Feb. 13—Harold Upright of New York spent Saturday and Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Edith Upright.

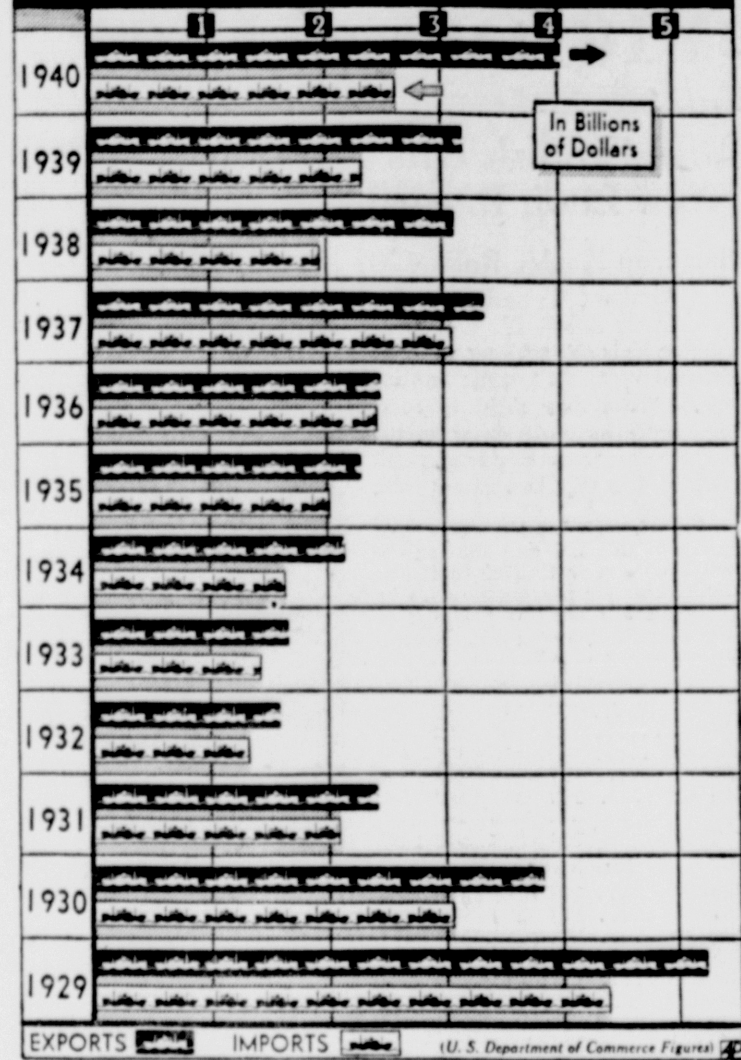

The flowers in the Presbyterian Church a week ago were placed there by Miss Julia Van Keuren in memory of her sister, Miss Isabelle Van Keuren.

Herbert Salomon and Miss Patricia McAuley of New York spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Salomon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leonard drove up from East Orange, N. J., on Sunday to see her mother, Mrs. Helen Deyo Brown, who has been ill at her home.

William MacElvren, an engineer in the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co. office in Poughkeepsie,

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS UP

Exports and imports, more than twice as great as in 1932, are steadily approaching the 1929 peak. A sign of the times and likewise a sign of prosperity in the United States is the steady gain in the nation's foreign trade.

occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, owing to the illness of the Rev. D. S. Haynes. Mr. Mac Elvren was formerly Dutchess County Christian Endeavor president. He spoke in Pawling in the evening and was to be at the Borey in New York during this week.

Mrs. C. Imbrie Richards was called to Syracuse Saturday by the death of her uncle. The Monday evening class in nursing conducted by Mrs. Richards was postponed until Tuesday evening.

Ida McKinley Council, Daughters of America, have arranged to hold a card party following its regular meeting, February 19. Mrs. Richard Petersen is chairman of tickets and tallies; Mrs. John Graham, general chairman; Mr. and Mrs. George Gumsalus, chairs and tables; Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, refreshments.

Mrs. Harry B. Cotant returned to her position in the Fallkill Bank, Poughkeepsie, Monday after a week's sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Van Wagner and daughter spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here and in New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Burnett are entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rickard of Cobleskill during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Soule and Borden Upright drove over from Hartford, Conn., Sunday with their mother, Mrs. W. J. Upright, who had been with them for the past 10 days.

War on Plague Starts

Official and private organizations in Mexico are cooperating in a campaign against tuberculosis on a national scale under the guidance of Dr. Victor Fernandez Manero, new public health chief in Mexico City. He reports that the annual average number of deaths from tuberculosis in Mexico is 450,000, which he pronounces "shockingly high" in a population of 20,000,000.

Porter's Cap Wins

Los Angeles, Feb. 13 (AP)—Charlie Howard, the wealthy Francisco horse owner, has a problem. He doesn't know whether to shoot a double-barrel at a $100,000 purse, one barrel and aim it at a glory than gold. Howard's Porter's Cap thoroughly thrashed a field of the finest three-olds campaigning in the world today when he won the Santa Anita derby.
